Davis Seated In Senate Despite Nye's Objections

OATH GIVEN AT ONCE TO LEGISLATOR

Is Seated By Vote of 27 to 58 and Most Difficult Phase of Fight Is Ended
NYE SHAKES HANDS
Committee Still Plans to Check Reports of Davis Campaign Expenditures

WASHINGTON, Dec. 2.—(UP)—James J. Davis, of Pennsylvania, was sworn in as a senator today over the objections of Chairman Nye of the campaign expenditures committee.

Davis was seated by a vote of 27 to 58, which prevented Nye from delaying the oath.

The vote to seat Davis came after Senator David A. Reed, Republican, Pennsylvania, who led the unsuccessful fight for the seating of William S. Vare, asked that Nye's resolution to refer the matter to committee be laid over for one day.

Vice President Curtis then sustained Nye who insisted the resolution be voted on immediately.

After the vote Reed escorted Davis to Curtis' desk and Davis was sworn at 12:23 p. m. Nye immediately offered his hand to the new senator and Davis shook it cordially.

Davis thus was carried over the most difficult hurdle of his fight. The Nye committee still intends to check up reports of additional expenditures said to amount to about $117,000. Nye estimates the total expenditures in behalf of the Davis ticket in the Pennsylvania primaries last summer will reach $329,000.

In the Newberry case in 1922, the senate declared expenditure of $195,000 to be contrary to the best interests of self-government.

However, with Davis now in his seat, a two-thirds vote would be required to unseat him, whereas only a majority vote would have been necessary to prevent him from being sworn in. Administration leaders were confident they could prevent a two-thirds vote unless some unexpected developments should put new light on the case.

For a time it seemed that Davis might be compelled to stand aside

Steals Car As Sleuth Is In Rear Seat

PORTLAND, Ore., Dec. 2.—(UP)—You may be assured that Cyril E. Robinson, 22, decidedly English, was rather embarrassed when he stole a police automobile and found a detective in the rear seat.

Robinson didn't appreciate the humor in the situation when Detective H. J. McCormick arrested him after a short "sightseeing" ride.

McCormick said he was leaning over seeking a license plate record in the rear seat when someone started the engine. As he was detailed to catch automobile thieves, McCormick slumped to the floor and waited to see what would happen.

After a ride of about four blocks Robinson was arrested.

HOOVER PREDICTS U. S. TO LEAD PROSPERITY RETURN

SAMARITAN IS BELIEVED LOST IN SNOW MAZE

Idaho Doctor Missing Since Monday on Trip to Aid Patient

BOISE, Dec. 2.—(UP)—Dr. Don S. Numbers, McCall, Ida., who set forth late Monday on an errand of mercy, today was believed lost in a trackless snow-covered wilderness.

The physician left McCall for Squaw Meadows, 50 miles distant, where J. D. Moore, a mountaineer, was reported dying from a stomach ulcer. Only an emergency operation could save the man and Dr. Numbers was summoned.

Searching parties were handicapped. All tracks of the doctor's dog team are covered by snow so the search will be largely a matter of guesswork.

In the meantime, Monroe, whose condition impelled the sudden and dangerous trip, was assumed to be beyond human aid. His condition yesterday was critical and his only chance was a quick operation.

Dr. Numbers is no tyro of the woods. This fact leads forest service authorities to believe he may yet find his way out of the snow-white maze. Nor are long dog white muzzles over snow-covered hills something new. Often during long winter months he has risked his life to reach the bed of a patient far back in the mountains.

Arms Parley Opposes Gas In Warfare

Decision Postponed Until General Conference Sessions

GENEVA, Dec. 2.—(UP)—Delegates to the preparatory disarmament conference today opposed chemical warfare in principle, but on the suggestion of the United States, postponed any decision on the subject until the general disarmament conference.

The prohibition of crying, sneezing and coughing armies was urged by Rene Massigli, French delegate, in his definition of "asphyxiating, poisonous and similar gases." The French stand would prohibit the use of any gas.

The French attitude, as explained to the commission, is that combat gas includes suffocating, blistering, irritant and poisonous gases, while the irritant gas is subdivided into that which produces tears, sneezing, coughing, etc.

Lord Cecil, of England, held that it would be useless to prohibit chemical warfare, unless action is taken to prevent the manufacture of gases.

Hugh S. Gibson, defending the American position, urged postponement of the chemical warfare decision because of the need for technical data on the subject.

"The subject of gases is too technical," he said. "I believe that many nations at present will refuse to renounce the use of harmless gases in peacetime as police measures."

"I suggest that expert technical study of the subject be prepared for use of delegates to the future conference."

Gibson's proposal of various nations in regard to gas warfare will be mentioned in the commission's report to the council after which an expert report on all gases and smokes and the policies of the nations will be made.

"The suggestion for postponement of discussion of chemical warfare is based on a general lack of expert knowledge of gases and smokes," Gibson told the United Press later.

MECKS VICTIM OF HOMICIDAL INTENT. CLAIM

Coroner's Jury Says Albert Sutherland Fired Weapon

BERT MECKS, 30, well known Orange county bootlegger, died from a "gunshot wound in the head, from a gun in the hands of Albert Sutherland, fired with homicidal intent."

This was the verdict of a coroner's jury, which held an inquest over the body of Meeks at the Dixon Funeral parlors, 10 a. m. today, in Hunt.

Meeks was shot when he tried to enter the home of his sister, Mrs. Bertha Jackson, at 9:30 o'clock Sunday night, near Smelter, E. W. Howard, chief criminal deputy sheriff, who, with Deputy Sheriff Jess Buckles, were the first officers at the scene of the shooting today was of the opinion, he said, that Meeks was shot when he tried to force his way into the Jackson home, where Bertha Jackson, formerly Bertha Meeks, was living with Sullivan.

No charge had been placed against Sutherland at noon today. Deputy District Attorney Sam Collins attended the inquest and stated prior to it that no charge would be filed until after the verdict was reached. Sutherland is at present being held for investigation in the county jail, together with Mrs. Jackson, and Walter Meeks, a brother of the slain man. Walter Meeks was with Bert Meeks at the time of the shooting.

According to the story as told by Walter, he and Bert went to the Jackson home to get a pint of whiskey from Sutherland and Bert was shot when they knocked on the door.

Sutherland's story was to the effect that he shot Meeks because he was afraid his life was endangered, having been warned by Mrs. Jackson that the Meeks boys were coming after him that night. Officers have not been able to learn the trouble between the two brothers and Sutherland.

Members of the Meek family, including another brother, Robert Meeks, who according to Mrs. Jackson, recently was freed after serving a term in Folsom prison, declare there was no hard feeling between the Meeks boys and Sutherland and claim they do not know what instigated the shooting.

The inquest this morning was merely a formality. The body was identified and few witnesses were heard. Sutherland was not taken to the inquest, but the testimony of the two officers was heard.

Executive's Plans Given To Congress

Message Touches Lightly On Prohibition and Muscle Shoals

WASHINGTON, Dec. 2.—(UP)—The United States will overcome depression through prosperity as it always has done, President Hoover told congress today in his message laying down an already known program of relief legislation.

The president urged an immediate appropriation of $100,000,000 to $150,000,000 to accelerate government building during the next six months, thus to stimulate employment.

An indeterminate appropriation for seed and feed loans to farmers suffering from effects of the drought also was recommended.

This amplification of the federal budget will make it necessary to tighten the treasury purse strings on other expenditures. Mr. Hoover added in the document read in both houses soon after they convened for the second day of session. He inferred the one per cent tax reduction of last year could not continue and cautioned rigid economy lest a tax increase be necessary.

No notice was given by the president to the two subjects which have been most agitating the returning congressmen—prohibition and Muscle Shoals. He did not mention prohibition. His spokesmen explained his views on that subject would be reserved for submission of the Wickersham report.

Muscle Shoals was mentioned only in connection with a list of comparatively minor measures the president wants congress to pass before it adjourns March 4. He did not comment upon the merits of the Norris government ownership bill, private control or the compromise now being sought.

Of the ability of the nation to rise from the existing depression the president spoke forcefully. The downward curve has taken business only 15 to 20 per cent below the peak prosperity levels of 1923, he pointed out, adding:

"We should remember that these occasions have been met many times before, that they are but temporary, that our country is today stronger and richer in resources, in equipment, in skill, than ever in its history."

"We are in an extraordinary degree self-sustaining, we will overcome world influences and will lead the march of prosperity as we have always done hitherto."

The message was dispatched to congress by the presidential messenger Maurice Latta and read by the clerks in the senate and the house in accordance with the custom.

Text Of Hoover Message Is Published

The Register today is printing in full text of President Hoover's annual message to congress. The message will be found on page six of today's issue.

More than usual interest has been manifest in this year's message, because of the fact that several important issues in which the public is vitally concerned are treated in the executive document.

OVER 75 IN JAIL CELLS AT ABERDEEN

Prisons Unable to Hold All Alleged Bootleggers and Nearby Store Room Full
DRIVE JUST BEGUN
Officers Promise to Clean Up Dripping Wet Region Surrounding Gray's Port

ABERDEEN, Wash., Dec. 2.—Jails at Aberdeen, Hoquiam and Montesano were filled nearly to overflowing today as the result of the most widespread liquor raid ever conducted in the Grays harbor district.

Seventy-five persons were arrested, as prohibition agents, working in co-operation with county officers, swooped down on alleged speakeasies and stills.

The raids were so sudden and occurred so closely together that the prisoners were brought in faster than jails could accommodate them. The city jails at Aberdeen and Hoquiam were crowded, and quite a number of the prisoners were then herded into an empty store, where they were guarded by more than a dozen armed men until they could be taken to the county jail at Montesano.

Several women were among those arrested during the raids. Prohibition officers said the cleanup campaign was just starting, and that raids would be continued until "dripping wet Grays harbor becomes dry."

WOMAN FLIER'S RESCUE PARTY LANDS SAFELY

Mrs. Keith-Miller Will Be Taken to Miami Today

MIAMI, Fla., Dec. 2.—(UP)—Captain W. N. Lancaster, flying to the relief of Mrs. J. M. Keith-Miller, ill-fated Australian aviatrix, arrived at Nassau at 10:10 a. m. today after a two hour and four minute flight from Miami.

Lancaster was accompanied by John Liggett, Pittsburgh, a sponsor of Mrs. Keith-Miller's ill-fated flight, and by Carl Voelter, Miami, of the Curtiss flying service.

Before leaving, Captain Lancaster said he planned to stop on the way back at Andros Island, in the Bahamas group, and get Mrs. Keith-Miller's "Bulter" monoplane, flying it back to Miami himself.

FRIEND QUESTIONED IN HUNTER'S DEATH

DEL RIO, Tex., Dec. 2.—(UP)—Capt. George H. Williams, Galveston, was questioned by Mexican authorities today concerning the death of Raymond V. Markham, Columbus, O., an employee of the Scripps-Howard Newspaper alliance, while on a hunting trip with Williams.

Williams said he was hunting with Markham near Coahuila, Mex., and that they both were using flashlights. He told authorities Markham's light went out and he shot him accidentally in the dark.

Cabinet Members Guests Of Hoovers At Dinner Tonight

WASHINGTON, Dec. 2.—(UP)—The White House will be thrown open tonight for the first event of the official season—the cabinet dinner.

The ten heads of government departments with whom President Hoover works daily in affairs of state were the invited guests of the first state affair.

This morning the same group gathered with him around the work table of the cabinet room in the executive offices. Tonight they will forget business and assemble under the gleaming chandelier of the state dining room.

It is the first of 14 dinners and receptions to be held at the White House before the Lenten season.

There will be two new faces in the group since the dinner last year. William N. Doak is the labor secretary appointee to succeed James J. Davis. Patrick J. Hurley was appointed secretary of war less than a year ago after the death of James R. Good.

COMMITTEE SEEKS WORLD COURT DELAY

WASHINGTON, Dec. 2.—(UP)—An informal Republican-Democratic steering committee today developed a program to postpone action on the World Court for exactly 12 months.

President Hoover is completing the message which will accompany the project for American adherence when it is sent to the senate. Republican leaders remonstrated against its submission at this short session but Mr. Hoover insisted. Organizations sponsoring American adherence have been bombarding the White House for a month with pleas for immediate submission.

PRIZES AWARDED AT STOCK SHOW IN L.A.

LOS ANGELES, Dec. 2.—(UP)—Blue ribbons galore fluttered from California stock today as the result of the first day's judging of entries at the Fitch Annual Rodeo and Livestock show at Los Angeles stock yards. The majority of awards were given California entries.

The grand championship in the fat livestock went to "Brainy Bill," raised at the Baldwin ranch, Pleasanton. The Kenwood farms entry from Kenwood, Calif., won the first prize in the fat Short-horn division.

Dan D. Casement, of Manhattan, Kans., repeated his triumph of last year to take the prize in carload lots of Hereford steers.

"Long Beach Day" was celebrated at the show today.

FOG BLAMED FOR SERIOUS ACCIDENTS

FRESNO, Dec. 2.—(UP)—Seven persons were nursing hurts of various degrees here today, the result of automobile accidents blamed on the heavy fog that settled on Fresno last night.

The most seriously hurt were Mrs. L. B. Benson, 30, with internal injuries, and F. P. McCray, 31, San Jose, whose body bruises may prove serious because of his age.

The fog early today was still dense and was believed blanketing the entire San Joaquin valley, slowing down and menacing traffic. There appeared slight prospect that it would lift before mid-morning.

MOONEY AND BILLINGS WILL CONTINUE PARDON CAMPAIGN

SAN FRANCISCO, Dec. 2.—(UP)—Friends of Warren K. Billings and Thomas J. Mooney declared today they would continue with the 14 year old fight to liberate the two men from prison but prospects for success appeared slender.

The state supreme court yesterday returned a decision in which six of the seven members refused to recommend a pardon for Billings who, with Mooney, was convicted of complicity in the San Francisco Preparedness day bombing, July 22, 1916, in which 10 persons were killed.

Billings' case was before the court because he is serving his second term in prison. California law requires that the supreme court recommend favorably in such instances before the governor may exercise executive clemency.

The legal status of Mooney is different. He is serving his first term and may be pardoned by the governor at any time but Governor C. C. Young has repeatedly said that he considers the cases parallel and that each man shall receive similar treatment.

INCREASED RATES ON MAIL SUGGESTED

WASHINGTON, Dec. 2.—(UP)—Increased mail rates to yield additional yearly revenue of $55,000,000 were proposed by Postmaster General Brown in his annual report. He recommended that the present rate of 2 cents an ounce for first class mail be raised to 2 1-2 cents.

Brown's report, published today, revealed a deficit of $98,000,000 from operations of the postal service in the fiscal year of 1930.

The postmaster general announced some time ago he would recommend the increased rates. Since then many protests have been received, although no formal opposition has developed.

WARMER WEATHER PREDICTED IN EAST

CHICAGO, Dec. 2.—(UP)—The cold wave that spread over the north central and midwestern states with the opening of December reached its climax today and the forecast was that warmer temperatures would prevail throughout the region before night.

The wave which swept across Illinois shortly after midnight Monday drove the mercury early today down to about zero in most parts of the Great Lakes region. It was the coldest weather of the winter, thus far, but was not as keenly felt as the Thanksgiving wave, which was accompanied by driving winds, sleet and snow.

The forecast today was that the temperature would remain near zero until about noon, then begin a steady rise that might carry it as high as 25 above by night.

Supervisors Pay Visit To Grand Jury

TAXPAYERS TO APPEAR BEFORE BOARD LATER

Calvin Coolidge Says:

Former President of the United States

Dec. 2.—One of the hardest problems the congress has to meet is the constant pressure of outside influences. The old lobby that was so frequently charged with vicious activity practically has disappeared. But the organized minorities of special interests with agents and publicity bureaus for creating an artificial appearance of public opinion and showing senators and representatives with letters and telegrams has grown to huge proportions. It is a species of super-government undertaking to exercise sovereignty without any duly constituted authority or public responsibility. In consequence the congress is put under duress. Almost all these organizations seek an expenditure of the taxpayers' money.

Every interest has a right to organize and be heard. But the right to congressional action depends on the relation of the request to the welfare of all the people. If the congress could be let alone, if it could be free to form its own judgments on what it knows are the realities instead of being forced to surrender to the artificial, much time and money would be saved and much better legislation would result. The congressmen are the legal representatives of the people. No other agency can claim exclusive right to speak in the name of the people.

Other than routine matters of business the only matter occupying the attention of the board of supervisors during the morning session of that body today was its appearance before the grand jury committee, headed by Walter J. Cadman. This committee was assigned at the time of the organization of the grand jury to investigate the board of supervisors, assessor, tax collector, county clerk and recorder. The board received the committee in the conference room.

The board is scheduled to hold a hearing during the afternoon session today on the petition of a group of taxpayers from the Buena Park district, which is seeking to have the rate of $2 on the water district there cancelled. It is asserted that this rate is in error and should not have been assessed.

The county-wide educational survey matter is also scheduled to come before the attention of the board, again this afternoon, when a delegation of school officials is to appear in connection with the matter. Dr. F. H. Hart, of the department of education of the University of California, is to address the board, according to an announcement today from the office of the Santa Ana board of education. Members of the Santa Ana and Fullerton boards of education have also been invited to be present as well as principals of all high schools in the county.

The matter has been asked before the supervisors previously when a committee appeared and asked that the board finance a general educational survey of the county, from which it was anticipated information would be gleaned which would lead to a better program of junior college development in the county.

OATH GIVEN AT ONCE TO LEGISLATOR

Indefinitely. When he appeared in the senate at noon, having just relinquished his post as secretary of labor, Chairman Nye asked that he step aside and wait until the committee had inquired into reports of additional primary expenditures.

Deadly silence fell over the senate.

Davis wiped his hands nervously with his handkerchief and glanced about the crowded galleries.

His dream of being the only man to step directly from the cabinet into the senate without losing an hour from the federal payroll was in danger of being shattered. His plea to President Hoover to be allowed to do this had already resulted in delaying the installation of his successor, William N. Doak, as secretary of labor beyond the time when he could have gone in under recess appointment. Doak must now wait until he is confirmed by the senate before he can take office.

But just as Davis appeared doomed to a long wait outside the senate door, Senator Reed took the floor to plead for delay. Nye insisted on a showdown at once and Davis was admitted.

Further business was taken up with the decisions to invite the Fullerton Junior Lions den for a joint meeting at Ketter's some time in the near future and to plan for a snow party to be held at the cabin home of Ed Meador, tail twister, near Forest Home.

DEATHS

A WORD OF COMFORT

Gain's killing of his brother Alvin was the consummation, in a moment of jealous rage, of his having allowed his generously endowed nature to be untamed and his temper to remain untamed.

You must mold your own character. The primary step consists in defining your allegiance to God's will even at the sacrifice of self indulgence.

You have to hold true to your faith in God when you are tempted to doubt or to chide Him. You have to restrain your impulses to repine, because there is work to be done which requires your best. Let God guide your life and your strength will ever be directed aright.

LUNCHEON WILL OPEN PROGRAM OF LIONS CLUB

Due to a misunderstanding, scores of Santa Ana business men who are expecting to attend the "Business Confidence Month" dinner, to be held at the American Legion home on Birch street, are of the opinion that the dinner is to be held at night, according to a statement made today by Norman Sprowl, Fox theaters manager here who is chairman of the Santa Ana Lions club committee, sponsors of the movement.

"This is wrong. The dinner is to be served at 12 o'clock noon," Sprowl said today. "Scores of persons have called me and other officials of the luncheon clubs of Santa Ana because of the misunderstanding," he said.

More than 300 persons are expected to attend the meeting at which time a plan will be introduced to be used by the merchants here which Sprowl believes will stimulate business in Santa Ana during the month 100 per cent.

At the time, the dinner will open a campaign outlined by the Lions club and endorsed by virtually all other service clubs, whereby persons in Santa Ana are urged to buy at home during the month. The campaign calls for a vast amount of publicity for local merchants, coupled with an advertising campaign that will be carried throughout the month. Aside from that Sprowl has a unique plan whereby a large amount of money is to be kept circulating throughout the business district throughout the month.

Plans for the dinner were going ahead today at a fast clip. Hunter Leach, commander of the Santa Ana post of the American Legion, stated that all dinner plans were completed, and that the auxiliary was ready to feed 300 persons.

Sprowl announced that he had handpicked the vaudeville which is scheduled to appear as entertainment at the dinner. There will be several high class Fanchon and Marco acts on the stage.

Tickets for the banquet have been placed in the hands of Harry Hansen at the First National bank, for distribution. The tickets are going fast, it was announced, and all service club members are urged to get them from Hansen immediately.

Hoover Is Not Interested In Oil Fields

Despite rumors to the contrary, President Herbert Hoover is not financially interested in any oil company, either domestic or foreign. He has had no such interest since entering public service 10 years ago.

This was revealed here today in a letter from the White House to Alexander Cameron, R.F.D. 1, Huntington Beach. On November 19, Cameron wrote the president, telling him of persistent rumors that the executive was interested in foreign oil development and that he was opposed to a duty on oil for this reason. Cameron pointed out today that the letter from the White House definitely squelches these rumors.

VALIDITY OF TAXI LAW IS UP TO COURT

A question as to whether or not the city council has the right to adopt an ordinance which prohibits local taxi companies from carrying passengers in groups will be decided by City Judge John F. Talbott in the case of Roscoe Cook, driver employed by the Owl Taxi company, charged with violating a section of the ordinance prohibiting group loading.

When the case was called this morning, the prosecution was represented by City Attorney Charles D. Swanner, and the defendant by Attorney Morris Cain. According to the complaint, which was filed by C. H. Eckles, owner of the Santa Ana Bus Lines, the defendant on November 1 carried two passengers Mrs. Mary R. Krauch and W. W. Housman, on the same trip to two different destinations.

Mrs. Krauch, on the witness stand, stated that she made the trip in question, and that she noticed that another passenger, Housman, traveled in the same car, occupying the front seat of the taxi. She was not in position to state at what point Housman left the car.

Considerable delay was caused by the non-appearance of Housman, for whom a subpoena to appear in court was issued only a short time before the time set for the trial. Attorney Cain announced that he intended to question the validity of the city ordinance inasmuch as it attempts to regulate the operations of the business carried on by the taxi companies.

FATHER CLAIMS FRAMEUP WHEN CASE CALLED

The plight of a loving father who may have his two children, a little girl 9 and a boy 5, taken away from him because they have unusual talent as song artists, is the picture drawn for himself by Harry Hall, of Laguna Beach, who is being held in the county jail, awaiting a hearing on a charge of contributing to the delinquency of minors.

That accusation of contributing to the delinquency of the children is a frameup, so that the children can be taken away from him, is the charge of the father, who this morning, after his case was continued in Justice Kenneth Morrison's court was ordered to the county hospital for observation.

D. G. Wetlin, attorney for Hall, declared that his client believes that because of the children's art, that they are being deliberately taken away from him and therefore will fight to case to the end. In the complaint against Hall, he is charged with taking the children from place to place without allowing them an education and with mistreating them.

In court today Hall broke down and cried when his case was called. The little girl at the present time is being held in the county detention home and the boy is in the county hospital where he is quite ill, his temperature being 103 last night. His condition is not believed to be particularly serious, however.

Deputy Sheriff F. W. Howard and other officers who have been working on the case declared that the five year old boy is a child prodigy with unusual talent at singing. He knows 67 songs which he sings, one after the other, while his mental powers are said to be extraordinary in every way.

At the county hospital last night, while lying on his sick bed, the child was asked to sing a song. He said he couldn't as he had promised his father not to sing as long as he (the father) was in jail. Prevalled upon however, the boy said: "Well, I'll sing just one," and with that he started "The Prisoner's Song."

At the same time the district attorney's office claims to have evidence to show that the children have been grossly mistreated by the father. Their mother and father are separated and the father has been in Laguna Beach only a short time it was said.

Proprietor Of Lunch Room Is Robbed of $19

A well dressed bandit, with a small pistol, held up and robbed Mrs. M. Willis, proprietor of the Lantern Lunch Room, located at 1646 East First street, of $19 in cash last night, while she was alone in the place, according to a police report.

The bandit walked into the place about 7 o'clock, ordered two packages of cigarettes, and offered a $10 bill in payment. When Mrs. Willis turned to get the change, he whipped out the pistol and said: "Give me all of it." After pocketing the money he ordered her to lie down on the floor behind the counter.

The bandit escaped in a car which he had parked across the street from the restaurant.

Mrs. Willis reported the same man was in her place of business at 11:30 o'clock yesterday morning at which time he ate a piece of pie and at that time asked her if her business was good. She replied that it was, thinking him to be a prospective buyer for the place.

Officers Jensen and Wolford made an investigation.

HICKS DIES IN HOSPITAL LATE MONDAY NIGHT

G. E. Hicks, of 919 Foster road, Downey, seriously injured Sunday afternoon when the small truck he was driving, collided with a car operated by Tom Walker, Negro bootblack of Santa Ana, near Downey, died at the Valley hospital, at Downey, shortly after 9 o'clock last night.

Mrs. Hicks, who was riding with her husband at the time of the accident and who was injured, was today reported on the way to recovery. She was badly cut and bruised.

Walker, who was arrested by deputy sheriffs at the scene of the accident, is being held in the county jail in Los Angeles, booked for suspicion of manslaughter. Several business men of Santa Ana today went to Los Angeles to intercede for Walker, who is one of the best known men of his race in the city.

Charles Carrillo, court interpreter in Orange county, although not an eye-witness to the crash, reported that he was at the scene within a few minutes and that he

'SINGING COP' LAUNCHES HIS MUSIC CAREER

George Stinson is launched on his career. Last night before a select audience in the Ebell Club, Long Beach, the famous "Singing Cop" made his professional bow from the concert stage. In anticipation of the event, Madam Schumann-Heink, now filling professional engagements in New York City, announced over the radio Sunday evening, that "her boy" was about to embark on his professional career.

Orange county is watching George Stinson with interest; music lovers, and grand opera singers predict for him a brilliant future. Madam Schumann-Heink has gone so far as to say that he has the greatest tenor voice in the world today. The program which last night introduced him as a professional singer, justified all that has been said of him. As the feature attraction of the Hollywood Concert company, a musical organization under the management of Dr. O. A. Peters, of Hollywood and Germany, Mr. Stinson had the interest and appreciation of his audience from the moment of his introduction by Mayor LaGrange of Long Beach. His first number consisted of a group of songs, "Serenade" by Toselli, "Until" by Sanderson, and "Vesti La Giubba" (Pagliacci) by Leoncavallo.

His second numbers were a group of Irish ballads, "Mother In Ireland" and "Bells of Killarney" and "A Dream" and "Trusting Eyes". The closing group of songs showed him at his best, "Trees" by Rasbach, "For You Alone" by Gehl, and "O Sole Mio" (in Italian) by Di Capua. This last song showed how far indeed the "Singing Cop" has traveled on the road that leads to grand opera.

In forming his company Dr. Peters has included two clever and attractive young women, Maxine Martin, the pianist, executed some difficult numbers in splendid style, and seldom has an audience had an opportunity to listen to such finished cello playing as that done by Margery Stoddard, Francis Adams, as Mr. Stinson's accompanist is a finished artist. Among those in the audience were Judge and Mrs. John Landell, and daughter, Miss Gladys Landell, of San Juan Capistrano, and Mr. and Mrs. E. B. Deupree, Judge Landell is the person who discovered the possibility, who first recognized that he was a remarkable voice awaiting development, and to whose encouragement and advice Stinson owes his start.

Dr. Peters has booked a four months concert tour, which is to close in New York City, where Mr. Stinson will be welcomed by Madam Schumann-Heink. Following a number of dates which are to be played in California, including a farewell appearance in Santa Ana, the company will start towards the eastern states early in January.

COSTLY "FREE" RIDE

PHILADELPHIA—James Schimel, sewing machine salesman, was hurrying to make a sale when two men in a machine offered him a free ride. Schimel thought he would save taxi fare and accepted. Instead of saving taxi fare, however, he lost $300. The men held him up and took that amount from him.

BIBLE POPLES DELIVER TALKS IN EL MODENA

EL MODENA, Dec. 2. — Three young men who are studying for the ministry at the Huntington Park Training school, had charge of the evening service at the Friends church Sunday night, the Rev. Joseph Reese being absent on account of the death of his father.

The first speaker was J. Jentzen. He said in part: "I am always glad to testify for Jesus Christ. He says in one place, 'Except your righteousness exceed the righteousness of the Pharisees.' They looked up to the Pharisees as examples. The Jews were taught of God not to go into idolatry any more. The wise men came from the east, because they knew the time for the birth of Jesus Christ had come. We must come to God in God's way. The Pharisees had good positions, and they did not understand Jesus Christ. He came as a little babe born in a manger in an old dirty barn. He was as poor as any boy. When He was older He went among the poor doing good. The Pharisees hated Him. He had supernatural power to perform miracles, proving His divinity. He came to the world and was obedient unto death, even the death of the cross. The Pharisees did not like Him, the world today does not like Him.

Life Serving Others
The Son of God spent His life serving others, and He could not have any one come to Him with a proud heart. So many have never been humble enough to know they must come in God's way. Nothing else would do but to come to God and tell Him the truth. God's way is so plain. God's word has stood the test all through the ages. There is never any contradiction in God's word, for God's word is truth. Jesus Christ is all powerful. He gives peace and joy in all hearts. Praise God He is able to save us all. When Jesus Christ came down to earth, He went into the homes of publicans and sinners. When the Pharisees played he said, "I thank God that I am not as other men are." Is that a prayer to make to Almighty God? The publican said, "God be merciful to me a sinner." That is the attitude to take toward God. The way of holiness leads home. Without holiness the heart shall not see God."

Clear Teaching
The second speaker was Harley Fassel. He took as a text, several verses from the sixth chapter of Romans. He said: "Friends, I see some very clear teachings and some very clear statements. Where sin abounded the grace of God did more abundantly abound. In the second verse of this chapter, it speaks of our being baptized; everything that is like sin, must be out. We will have to be rid of everything of that kind. We can come to the place in our experience where we are free from all our sins. God has put them behind His back, and will remember them no more. No man can serve two masters. There are no half way measures with God. He makes a vertical line; we belong to God, or we belong to the devil. It is clearly marked out. We might try to fool ourselves, but God knows about us. We can have an experience where we do not have to fool anybody."

The third speaker was Harold Stanfield, who graduated from Orange high school last year. He said: "God says be ye holy for I am holy. A preacher was in a woods camp. A big, strong man came in where the preacher was sitting, and spit in the preacher's face. He did not resent it in any way, because he felt sorry for that man because he was a sinner. Afterwards he came up and pushed his fist in the minister's face. That evening the minister was called to the telephone, and asked to come to the death-bed of this man, he had been run over by a heavy truck. As soon as the minister came to him, he said, 'Oh, I want you to forgive me for the way I acted today.' The minister told him it was all right, he had nothing to forgive, and then asked him if he was ready to die. He prayed with him, and got him to pray. Pretty soon he smiled and said, 'I see Him, I see Him.'"

"The more you give up, the nearer you are to God. A man is not saved by works. Paul says, 'Go ye therefore on into perfection.' When the rich young ruler received more light, he found he didn't want it. God has an experience for every doubt in your mind, an experience that will supply all demands, all needs."

PAIN IN YOUR SHOULDERS?

Use Tysmol for Relief
Knife-like jabs of pain in the vicinity of the shoulder blade are generally due to neuritis, brought on by exposure to draughts or sudden changes of weather. In some cases there is stiffness or soreness in the muscles, making it difficult to raise the arm. The safest and easiest way to relieve such an attack is to apply a small quantity of Tysmol over the affected area. This soothing, healing preparation is quickly absorbed through the pores and carried to the throbbing aching peripheral nerves. The pains usually stop at the moment and in a very short time the last trace of soreness should disappear. Tysmol is absolutely harmless—free from dope. Recommended for all forms of nerve pain, whether caused by neuritis, neuralgia, sciatica or rheumatism. Sold by leading druggists. Always on hand at C. S. Kelley Drug Co., Adv.

RESOURCES OF PACIFIC LOAN CONCERN LARGE

Continued growth by Pacific States Savings and Loan company, the California institution which is the largest of all American building and loan associations, is evidenced by that company's statement as of November 29, released today, which shows its resources to have reached $72,634,899.

This is an increase of $719,523 over resources of a month ago and represents one of the largest November increases in the history of the institution.

The statement shows a loan total of $64,376,778 which is a net increase of $1,912,902 for the month. This compares with a net increase of approximately $800,000 during October and $1,400,000 during September.

Capital, surplus and undivided profits to November 29 reached $3,100,646 which is the highest total ever achieved by the institution. "November has usually been a month of seasonal dullness with our institution," said R. B. F. Randolph, Vice President and Director of Management of Pacific States Savings. "The results therefore during the month just ended are highly satisfactory and indicate to us a confirmation of the general impression that business conditions are improving."

DRUM CORPS IN ANNUAL DANCE DECEMBER 17

At a recent meeting of the Santa Ana Post No. 131, the Drum Corps was made a self-governing unit within the Legion. This was deemed advisable to assure the success of this very worthy organization.

Now, the Drum Corps members elect their own officers and have one non-playing member as secretary and manager. They have chosen William Iverson to act in this capacity. It is Iverson's duty to manage their business affairs, arrange for their appearance at parades, etc.

"Bob" Steinberger is commanding officer in charge of the corps. Uniforms and equipment of the Legion are used and accounted for by George Kellogg, supply sergeant.

The Drum Corps aims to be a self-supporting unit of the Legion and to this end will, from time to time, put on dances, drill competitions and public appearances to help defray the expense of equipment.

On December 17 they will give their annual dance at the Rendezvous ballroom at Balboa. The corps will be out in full regalia and give a program in the ballroom in addition to other attractive features. This yearly event has grown to be one of the outstanding dances of the year and is looked forward to by all lovers of the dance, both within and out of Legion circles.

Last year over a thousand merry-makers attended the Balboa party and with the dance floor doubled in size over 2000 people are expected and many surprises are in store for those attending.

If you have not already purchased your tickets from any of the members you may phone 287 or purchase same from any Drum Corps member on December 17 at the Rendezvous ballroom in Balboa.

"STOP SLANDERING YOUTH" IS SUBJECT OF SERMON BY REV. McPEAK LAST SUNDAY

"There has been no generation of youth in the memory of the oldest person now living that has been more slandered than the youth of today—from the ages of 15 to 25," said the Rev. W. H. McPeak, pastor of the United Presbyterian church, in his sermon Sunday night. The Rev. Mr. McPeak's theme was "Stop Slandering Youth."

Following is the text of Dr. McPeak's sermon:

"All sorts of remarks, criticisms and fears have been expressed concerning them. The girls smoke cigarettes, the boys carry a flask on their hip, petting parties, wild automobile rides, they are never at home, do not go to church, a law unto themselves, bold, lacking in a sense of responsibility. Thus the critics speak. One would conclude from this 'anvil chorus' that this generation of young people under consideration was on the highway to perdition."

"It is a fact that not many of these young people are sprouting angels' wings. It is also true that when the critics were young they did not sprout wings either and to leave such an impression on the mind of the youth of today, leaves a false impression. The youth of today know that if things are as they should be and if there is a breaking down, they are not responsible for these conditions as those who fashioned the times in which these young people live and make their choices."

"Think of the times in which they live and in which they are compelled to get their bearing! Home life is not the same as it used to be—social conditions are different. There have been vast economic changes. The entire world has witnessed a gigantic upheaval. In the face of these mighty changes, some have lost their heads and have been swept off their feet, but there are vast numbers who have their heads up and their lives are clean. For every banker who becomes a defaulter, there are thousands who remain honest. For all the husbands and wives who break the marriage vows, there are tens of thousands who remain faithful, even unto death. For all the preachers who betray their office, there are tens of thousands who never have and never will drag their sacred office into the mud and mire. For all the young people who sell their birthright for a mess of pottage, there are hundreds of thousands who hold fast their virtue and faith."

"There is in them deep centers of resistance, hidden sources of power. They still rise above scum of screen, stage and social excess, and see visions. Stop Slandering Youth! They are not common. Are they not more sinned against than sinning? Their manners, dress, cut of hair and lip stick are criticized. But, old-times, have you forgotten the bangs the girls used to wear, balloon skirts, leg-of-mutton sleeves and hats? What a work of art they were! Wide enough in the brim to obstruct entrance through any ordinary size door. They sing 'Happy Days Are Here Again' or 'Yes, We Have No Bananas' and it is pointed out as a sign of degeneracy. Not any more so than

BOARD DECLINES TO RENEW CONCESSION

NEWPORT BEACH, Dec. 2.—An application for a renewal of his concession at the municipal auto camp by J. H. Estus, made in a letter read at the city council meeting last night, was laid on the table until the next meeting, which is scheduled for next Monday evening.

Estus is a hardware merchant in Newport Beach and his contract expires January 1.

Members of the council recently stated to directors of the Newport Harbor Chamber of Commerce that the city board had decided on a policy which will cut off the eastern end of the camp, which will eventually be made into a beauty spot, or perhaps a civic center.

There had been some agitation for eliminating the camp from that section of the city entirely, as it occupies valuable land between

"AIRCRAFTERS" PLANNING MEET FOR JANUARY 2

Naming D. H. Tibbals as "district commander" and selecting January 2 as the date for the first competitive air meet, the local board of sponsors of the American Model Aircrafters club met yesterday afternoon at the Y. M. C. A. and took up plans for promoting interest in the work of this new aviation organization.

L. B. Stearns was named publicity director. Arrangements for the meet on January 2 were left in the hands of Burton Rowley, Carroll Nieswanger and S. C. High. The committee on awards for that occasion is A. G. Green and J. A. Cranston.

The materials for building the models are now available at Hill and Carden's store, which has been made headquarters and base of supplies. Any boy or girl may enroll as a member, and secure the materials for constructing the first model plane, the "Air King," which has an 18-inch wing spread, and a considerable flying radius. The air meet scheduled for January 2 will be based on the performances of these first models, and the honors will be granted on the basis of quality of workmanship and the flying performance of the models shown.

HERE'S A WAY OUT

OSLO.—Through a system of beer checks, Sweden reduced the number of convictions for drunkenness from 58,999 in 1913 to 29,990 in 1928. The system consists of giving each worthy person a "control" book which entitles him to a certain number of drinks at a liquor shop where he is registered. If the person abuses his privilege, it is taken from him.

We have heard men object to giving their wives a "too-sensible" Christmas gift.

But—is it too sensible to give her relief from work that is wearing her out?

Is it too sensible to give her time for more than household drudgery?

Is it too sensible to give her years of faster, easier, more thorough cleaning—which you do in the gift of a Hoover?

We think not. Let us show you how this gift costs you only $6.25 down, the balance monthly, and there is a liberal allowance for your old cleaner.

Text Of Hoover's Message To Congress

To the Senate and House of Representatives:

I have the honor to comply with the requirement of the Constitution that I should lay before the Congress information as to the state of the Union, and recommend consideration of such measures as are necessary and expedient.

Substantial progress has been made during the year in national peace and security; the fundamental strength of the nation's economic life is unimpaired; education and scientific discovery have made advances; our country is more alive to its problems of moral and spiritual welfare.

Economic Situation
During the past 12 months we have suffered with other nations from economic depression. The origins of this depression lie to some extent within our own borders through a speculative period which diverted capital and energy into speculation rather than constructive enterprise. Had over-speculation in securities been the only force operating, we should have seen recovery many months ago, as these particular dislocations have generally readjusted themselves.

Other deep-seated causes have been in action, however, chiefly the world-wide overproduction beyond even the demand of prosperous times for such important basic commodities as wheat, rubber, coffee, sugar, copper, zinc, to some extent cotton, and other raw materials. The cumulative effects of demoralizing price falls of these important commodities in the process of adjustment of production to world consumption have produced financial crises in many countries and have diminished the buying power of these countries for imported goods to a degree which extended the difficulties farther afield by creating unemployment in all the industrial nations. The political agitation in Asia; revolutions in South America and political unrest in some European States; the methods of sale by Russia of her increasing agricultural exports to European markets; and our own drought—have all contributed to prolong and deepen the depression.

In the larger view the major forces of the depression now lie outside of the United States, and our recuperation has been retarded by the unwarranted degree of fear and apprehension created by the outside forces.

The extent of the depression is indicated by the following approximate percentages of activity during the past three months as compared with the highly prosperous year of 1928:

Value of department-store sales, 93 per cent of 1928.
Volume of manufacturing production, 80 per cent of 1928.
Volume of mineral production, 80 per cent of 1928.
Volume of factory employment, 84 per cent of 1928.
Total of bank deposits, 105 per cent of 1928.

Wholesale prices—all commodities, 83 per cent of 1928.
Cost of living, 94 per cent of 1928.

Various other indexes indicate total decrease of activity from 1928 of from 15 to 20 per cent.

There are many factors which give encouragement for the future. The fact that we are holding from 80 to 85 per cent of our normal activities and incomes; that our major financial and industrial institutions have come through the storm unimpaired; that price levels of major commodities have remained approximately stable for some time; that a number of industries are showing signs of increasing demand; that the world at large is ready justifying itself to the situation; all reflect grounds for confidence.

We should remember that these occasions have been met many times before, that they are but temporary, that our country is today stronger and richer in resources, in equipment, in skill, than ever in its history. We are in an extraordinary degree self-sustaining, we will overcome world influences and will lead the march of prosperity as we have always done hitherto.

Economic depression cannot be cured by legislative action or executive pronouncement. Economic wounds must be healed by the action of the cells of the economic body—the producers and consumers themselves. Recovery can be expedited and its effects mitigated by cooperative action. That cooperation requires that every individual should sustain faith and courage; that each should maintain his self-reliance; that each and every one should search for method of improving his business or service; that the vast majority whose income is unimpaired should not hoard out of fear but should pursue their normal living and recreations; that each should seek to assist his neighbors who may be less fortunate; that each industry should assist its own employees; that each community and each state should assume its full responsibilities for organization of employment and relief of distress with that sturdiness and independence which built a great nation.

Our people are responding to these impulses in remarkable degree. The best contribution of government lies in encouragement of this voluntary cooperation in the community. The government, national, state and local, can join with the community in such programs and do its part. A year ago I, together with other officers of the government, initiated extensive cooperative measures throughout the country.

The first of these measures was an agreement of leading employers to maintain the standards of wages and of labor leaders to use their influence against strike. In a large sense these undertakings have been adhered to and we have not witnessed the usual reductions of wages which have always heretofore marked depressions. The index of union wage scales shows them to be today fully up to the level of any of the previous three years. In consequence the buying power of the country has been much larger than would otherwise have been the case. Of equal importance the nation has had unusual peace in industry and freedom from the public disorder which has characterized previous depressions.

The second direction of cooperation has been that our governments, national, state and local, the industries and business to distribute employment as to give work to the maximum number of employees.

The third direction of cooperation has been to maintain even extend construction work and betterments in anticipation of the future. It has been the universal experience in previous depressions that public works and private construction have fallen off rapidly with the general tide of depression. On this occasion, however, the increased authorization and generous appropriations by the Congress and the action of states and municipalities have resulted in the expansion of public construction to an amount even above that in the most prosperous years. In addition the cooperation of public utilities, railways, and other large organizations has been generously given in construction and betterment work in anticipation of future need. The Department of Commerce advises me that as a result, the volume of this type of construction work, which amounted to roughly $6,300,000,000 in 1929, instead of decreasing will show a total of about $7,000,000,000 for 1930. There has, of course, been a substantial decrease in the types of construction which would be undertaken in advance of need.

The fourth direction of cooperation was the organization in such states and municipalities, as was deemed necessary, of committees to organize local employment, to provide for employment agencies, and to effect relief of distress.

The result of magnificent cooperation throughout the country has been that actual suffering has been kept to a minimum during the past 12 months, and our unemployment has been far less in proportion than in other large industrial countries. Some time ago it became evident that unemployment would continue over the winter and would necessarily be added to from seasonal causes and that the savings of workpeople would be more largely depleted. We have as a nation a definite duty to see that no deserving person in our country suffers from hunger or cold. I therefore set up a more extensive organization to stimulate more intensive cooperation throughout the country. There has been a most gratifying degree of response from governors, mayors, and other public officials, from welfare organizations, and from employers in concerns both large and small. The local communities through their voluntary agencies have assumed the duty of relieving individual distress and are being generously supported by the public.

The number of those wholly out of employment seeking for work was accurately determined by the census last April as about 2,500,000. The Department of Labor index of employment in the private trades shows some decrease in employment since that time. The problem from a relief point of view is somewhat less than the published estimates of the number of unemployed would indicate. The intensive community and individual efforts in providing special employment outside the listed industries are not reflected in the statistical indexes and tend to reduce such published figures. Moreover, there is estimated to be a constant figure at all times of nearly 1,000,000 unemployed who are not without annual income but temporarily lie in the shift from one job to another. We have an average of about three breadwinners to each two families, so that every person unemployed does not represent a family without income. The view that the relief problems are less than the gross numbers would indicate is confirmed by the experience of several cities, which shows that the number of families in distress represents from 10 to 20 per cent of the number of the calculated unemployed. This is not said to minimize the very real problem which exists but to weigh its actual proportions.

As a contribution to the situation the Federal Government is engaged upon the greatest program of waterway, harbor, flood control, public building, highway and airway improvement in all our history. This, together with loans to merchant shipbuilders, improvement of the Navy and in military aviation, and other construction work of the Government will exceed $520,000,000 for this fiscal year. This compares with $253,000,000 in the fiscal year 1928. The construction works already authorized and the construction aid will require a continual expenditure upwards of half a billion dollars annually.

I favor still further temporary expansion of these activities in aid to the unemployment during this winter. The Congress will, however, have presented to it numbers of projects, some of them under the guise of, rather than the reality of, their usefulness in the increase of employment during the depression. There are certain commonsense limitations upon any expansions of construction work. The Government must not undertake works that are not of sound economic purpose and that have not been subject to searching technical investigation, and which have not been given adequate consideration by the Congress. The volume of construction work in the Government is already at the maximum limit warranted by financial prudence as a continuing policy. To increase taxation for purposes of construction work defeats its own purpose, as such taxes directly diminish employment in private industry. Again any kind of construction requires, after its authorization, a considerable time before labor can be employed in which to make engineering, architectural, and local preparation. Our immediate problem is the increase of employment for the next six months, and new plans which do not produce such immediate results or which extend commitments beyond this period are not warranted.

The enlarged rivers and harbors, public building, and highway plans authorized by the Congress last session, however, offer an opportunity for assistance by the temporary acceleration of construction of these programs even faster than originally planned, especially if the technical requirements of the laws which entail great delays could be amended in such fashion as to speed up the requirements of land and the letting of contracts.

With view, however, to the possible need for acceleration, we immediately upon receiving those authorities from the Congress five months ago, began the necessary technical work in preparation for such possible eventualities. I have canvassed the departments of the Government as to the maximum amount that can be properly added to our present expenditure to accelerate all construction during the next six months, and I am now working in asking the Congress for an appropriation of $100,000,000 to $150,000,000 to provide such further employment in this emergency. In connection therewith we need some authority to make enlarged temporary advances of Federal highway aid to the States.

I recommend that this appropriation be made distributable to the different departments upon recommendation of a committee of the Cabinet and approval by the President. Its application to works already authorized by the Congress assures its use in dire need and to public welfare. Such action will imply an expenditure upon construction of all kinds of over $650,000,000 during the next twelve months.

Agriculture
The world-wide depression has affected agriculture in common with all other industries. The average price of farm produce has fallen to about 80 per cent of the levels of 1928. This average is, however, greatly affected by wheat and cotton, which have participated in world-wide overproduction and have fallen to about 60 per cent of the average price of the year 1928. Excluding these commodities, the prices of all other agricultural products are about 84 per cent of those of 1928. The average wholesale prices of other primary goods, such as nonferrous metals, have fallen to 76 per cent of 1928. The price levels of our major agricultural commodities are, in fact, higher than those in other principal producing countries, due to the combined result of the tariff and the operations of the Farm Board. For instance, wheat prices at Minneapolis are about 30 per cent higher than at Winnipeg, and at Chicago they are about 20 per cent higher than at Buenos Aires. Corn prices at Chicago are over twice as high as at Buenos Aires. Wool prices average more than 80 per cent higher in this country than abroad, and butter is 30 per cent higher in New York City than in Copenhagen.

Aside from the misfortune to agriculture of the world-wide depression we have had the most severe drought. It has affected particularly the States bordering on the Potomac, Ohio, and Lower Mississippi Rivers, with some areas in Montana, Kansas, Oklahoma, and Texas. It has found its major expression in the shortage of pastures and a shrinkage in the corn crop from an average of about 2,800,000,000 bushels to about 2,090,000,000 bushels.

On August 14 I recall a conference of the governors of the most acutely affected States, and as a result of its conclusions I appointed a national committee comprising the heads of the important Federal agencies under the chairmanship of the Secretary of Agriculture. The governors in turn have appointed State committees representative of the farmers, bankers, business men, and the Red Cross, and subsidiary committees have been established in most of the acutely affected counties. Railway rates were reduced on feed and livestock in and out of the drought areas, and over 50,000 cars of such products have been transported under these reduced rates. The Red Cross established a preliminary fund of $5,000,000 for distress relief purposes and established agencies for its administration in each county. Of this fund less than $500,000 has been called for up to this time and need will appear more largely during the winter. The Federal Farm Loan Board has extended its credit facilities, and the Federal Farm Board has given financial assistance to all affected cooperatives.

In order that the Government may meet its full obligation toward our countrymen in distress through no fault of their own, I recommend that an appropriation should be made to the Department of Agriculture to be loaned for the purpose of seed and feed for animals. Its application should be as hitherto in such loans be limited to a gross amount to any one individual, and secured upon the crop.

The Red Cross can relieve the cases of individual distress by the sympathetic assistance of our people.

I shall submit the detailed financial position of the Government with recommendations in the usual Budget message. I will at this time, however, mention that the Budget estimates of receipts and expenditures for the current year were formulated by the Treasury and the Budget Bureau at a time when it was impossible to forecast the severity of the business depression and have been most seriously affected by it. At that time a surplus of about $123,000,000 was estimated for this fiscal year and tax reduction which affected the fiscal year to the extent of $75,000,000 was authorized by the Congress, thus reducing the estimated surplus to about $48,000,000. Closely revised estimates now made by the Treasury and the Bureau of the Budget of the tax, postal, and other receipts for the current fiscal year indicate a decrease of about $430,000,000 from the estimate of a year ago, of which about $75,000,000 is due to tax reduction, leaving about $355,000,000 due to the depression. Moreover, legislation enacted by Congress subsequent to the submission of the Budget enlarging Federal construction work to expand employment and for increase in veterans' services and other items, have increased expenditures during the current fiscal year by about $225,000,000. Thus the decrease of $430,000,000 in revenue and the increase of $225,000,000 in expenditure adversely change the original Budget situation by about $655,000,000. This large sum is offset by the original estimated surplus a year ago of about $123,000,000, by the application of $185,000,000 of interest payments upon the foreign debt to current expenditures, by arrangements of the Farm Board through repayments, etc., in consequence of which they reduced their net cash demands upon the Treasury by $100,000,000 in this period, and by about $67,000,000 economies and deferrals brought about in the Government, thus reducing the practical effect of the change in the situation to an estimated deficit of about $180,000,000 for the present fiscal year. I shall make suggestions for handling the present-year deficit in the Budget message, but I do not favor encroachment upon the statutory reduction of the public debt.

While it will be necessary in public interest to further increase expenditures during the current fiscal year in aid to unemployment by speeding up construction work and aid to the farmers affected by the drought, I can not emphasize too strongly the absolute necessity to defer any other plans for increase of Government expenditures. The Budget for 1932 fiscal year indicates estimated expenditure of about $4,054,000,000, including postal deficit. The receipts are estimated at about $4,085,000,000 if the temporary tax reduction of last year be discontinued, leaving a surplus of only about $30,000,000. Most rigid economy is therefore necessary to avoid increase in taxes.

National Defense
Our Army and Navy are being maintained at a high state of efficiency, under officers of high training and intelligence, supported by a devoted personnel of the rank and file. The London naval treaty has brought important economies in the conduct of the Navy. The Navy Department will lay before the committees of the Congress recommendations for a program of authorization of new construction which should be initiated in the fiscal year of 1932.

Legislation
This is the last session of the Seventy-first Congress. During its previous sittings it has completed a very large amount of important legislation, notably: The establishment of the Federal Farm Board; fixing congressional reapportionment; revision of the tariff, including the flexible provisions of the Tariff Commission; reorganization of the Radio Commission; reorganization of the Federal Power Commission; expansion of Federal prisons; expansion of veterans' hospitals; establishment of disability allowances to veterans; consolidation and strengthening of prohibition enforcement activities in the Department of Justice; organization of a Narcotics Bureau; large expansion of rivers and harbors improvements; substantial increase in Federal highways; enlargement of public buildings construction program; and the ratification of the London naval treaty.

The Congress has before its legislation partially completed in the last sitting in respect to Muscle Shoals, bus regulation, relief of congestion in the courts, reorganization of border patrol in prevention of smuggling, law enforcement in the District of Columbia, and other subjects.

It is desirable that these measures should be completed. The short session does not permit of extensive legislative programs, but there are a number of questions which, if time does not permit action, I recommend should be placed in consideration by the Congress, perhaps through committees convening in some instances with the Federal departments, with view to preparation for subsequent action. Among them are the following subjects:

Electrical Power
I have in a previous message recommended effective regulation of interstate electrical power. Such regulation should preserve the independence and responsibility of the States.

Railways
We have determined upon a national policy of consolidation of the railways as a necessity of more stable and more economically operated transportation. Further legislation is necessary to facilitate such consolidation, the public interest we should strengthen the railways that they may meet our future needs.

Antitrust Laws
I recommend that the Congress institute an inquiry into some aspects of the economic working of these laws. I do not favor repeal of the Sherman Act. The prevention of monopolies is of most vital public importance. Competition is not only the basis of progress, but is the incentive to progress. However, the interpretation of these laws by the courts, the changes in business, especially in the economic effects upon those enterprises closely related to the use of the natural resources of the country, make such an inquiry advisable. The producers of these materials assert that certain unfortunate results of wasteful and destructive use of these natural resources together with a destructive competition which impoverishes both operator and worker can not be remedied because of the prohibitive interpretation of the antitrust laws. The well-known condition of the bituminous coal industry is an illustration. The people have a vital interest in the conservation of these natural resources; in the prevention of wasteful practices; in conditions of destructive competition which may impoverish the producer and the wage earner; and they have an equal interest in maintaining adequate competition. I therefore suggest that an inquiry be directed especially to the effect of the workings of the antitrust laws in these particular fields to determine if these evils can be remedied without sacrifice of the fundamental purpose of these laws.

Capital-Gains Tax
It is urged by many thoughtful citizens that the peculiar economic effect of the income tax on so-called capital gains at the present rate is to enhance speculative inflation and likewise impede business recovery. I believe this to be the case and I recommend that a study be made of the economic effects of this tax and of its relation to the general structure of our income tax law.

Immigration
There is need for revision of our immigration laws upon a more limited and more selective basis, flexible to the needs of the country.

Under conditions of current unemployment it is obvious that persons coming to the United States seeking work would likely become either a direct or indirect public charge. As a temporary measure the officers issuing visas to immigrants have been, in pursuance of the law, instructed to refuse visas to applicants likely to fall into this class. As a result the visas issued have decreased from an average of about 24,000 per month prior to restrictions to a rate of about 7,000 during the last month. These are largely persons under the law, visas from Mexico are about 250 per month compared to about 4,000 previous to restrictions. The whole subject requires exhaustive reconsideration.

I urge the strengthening of our deportation laws so as to more fully rid ourselves of criminal aliens. Furthermore, thousands of persons have entered the country in violation of the immigration laws. The very method of their entry indicates their objectionable character, and our law-abiding foreign-born residents suffer in consequence. I recommend that the Congress provide methods of strengthening the Government to correct this abuse.

Post Office
Due to deferment of government building over many years, previous administrations had been compelled to enter upon types of leases for secondary facilities in large cities, some of which were objectionable as representing too high a return upon the value of the property. To prevent the occasion for further uneconomic leasing I recommend that the Congress authorize the building by the government of its own facilities.

Veterans
The nation has generously expanded its care for veterans. The consolidation of all veterans' activities into Veterans' Administration has produced substantial administrative economies. The consolidation also brings emphasis to the inequalities in service and allowances. The whole subject is under study by the administrator, and I recommend it should also be examined by the committees of the Congress.

I urge further consideration by the Congress of the recommendations I made a year ago looking to the development through temporary federal aid of adequate state and local services for the health of children and the further stamping out of communicable diseases, particularly in the rural sections. The advances of scientific discovery, methods, and social thought imposes a new vision in these matters. The drain upon the federal treasury is comparatively small. The results both economic and moral are of the utmost importance.

It is my belief that after the passing of this depression, when we can examine it in retrospect, we shall need to consider a number of other questions as to what action may be taken by the government to remove possible governmental influences which make for stability and to better organize mitigation of the effect of depression. It is as yet too soon to constructively formulate such measures.

There are many administrative subjects, such as departmental reorganization, extension of the civil service, readjustment of the postal rates, etc., which at some appropriate time require the attention of the Congress.

Foreign Relations
Our relations with foreign countries have been maintained upon a high basis of cordiality and good will.

During the past year the London naval pact was completed, approved by the Senate, and ratified by the governments concerned. By this treaty we have abolished competition in the building of warships, have established the basis of parity of the United States with the strongest of foreign powers, and have accomplished a substantial reduction in war vessels.

During the year there has been an extended political unrest in the world. Asia continues in disturbed condition, and revolutions have taken place in Brazil, Argentina, Peru, and Bolivia. Despite the jeopardy to our citizens and their property which naturally arises in such circumstances, we have, with the co-operation of the governments concerned, been able to meet all such instances without friction.

We have resumed normal relations with the new governments of Brazil, Argentina, Peru, and Bolivia immediately upon evidence that they were able to give protection to our citizens and their property, and that they recognized their international obligations.

A commission which was supported by the Congress has completed its investigation and reported upon our future policies in respect to Haiti and provides of high value in securing the acceptance of these policies. An election has been held and a new government established. We have replaced our high commission by a minister and have begun the gradual withdrawal of our activities with view to complete retirement at the expiration of the present treaty in 1935.

A number of arbitration and conciliation treaties have been completed or negotiated during the year, and will be presented for approval by the Senate.

I shall, in a special message, lay before the Senate the protocols covering the statutes of the World Court which have been revised to accord with the sense of previous Senate reservations.

GIVES KREG TALK ON WATER PUMPS

Assistant Farm Advisor W. M. Cory, in an address over KREG last night, spoke on water pumps and their relationship to land development.

In showing the importance of the subject Cory said:

"Thus it might be said that the development of Southern California is analogous to the creation and perfection of the deep well pump. Here in Orange county no gravity water is used as an exclusive supply for domestic purposes. Perhaps as much as one-third of the cultivated area of the county receives gravity water a portion of the year. A consideration of this rather emphasizes the part that the deep well pump has taken in our present high state of development."

In concluding his discussion Cory said that in many instances growers could reduce their capital investment in pumps per acre by joining with their neighbors as is done in water companies.

FRUIT MARKETING CONDITIONS OUTLINED AS 100 GROWERS OF COUNTY HEAR CITRUS HEADS

ORANGE, Dec. 2.—The probability of a large crop of medium sized valencia oranges, which will undoubtedly equal in quantity the record crop of small-sized oranges of this variety of 1929, was voiced at a meeting of directors and managers of packing plants connected with Orange County Fruit exchange held at the American Legion clubhouse last night.

Over 100 vitally interested in the citrus headquaters, King said. He explained the success of the distributing plant established this year in Los Angeles for lower grade fruit than that which is packed, and said that the plant this year had brought to growers several hundred thousand dollars.

Industry in Florida
King gave a survey of the citrus industry in Florida and declared that on visiting that state recently he was surprised to find the groves in a most flourishing condition in spite of contention with hurricanes, the fruit fly and land hoons. The fruit fly had been the means in getting the growers together, he said. Armstrong described the Florida grower as more of an individualist than the California grower, as he had no need of co-operation to get water. In many ways, he said, it was harder to get the growers together for their mutual benefit than it was in California. Florida growers may buy land for $50 an acre, clear it for a like amount and plant it for $75 with labor at $1.75 a day. The problem of the Florida grower, this year, is to dispose of his grapes to some extent.

High Orange Prices
In speaking of marketing the crop of 1930, King said growers of deciduous fruits of all kinds had experienced a most disastrous year and that in view of this fact they had been able to understand why consumers had been willing to pay $2.50 for a box of oranges and but $2.00 for a box of deciduous fruits.

A confidence in oranges as a food product has been established and consumers feel that they cannot get better values than oranges, King said in explaining the situation.

The marketing of the crop of small sizes last year was in the nature of sampling operations, King said, and the small sizes and moderate prices had been instrumental in establishing the satisfactory market of this year. It would be a bad thing for growers to have several light years, as it takes a large crop to maintain interest in produce, he said.

"Last year," the speaker said, "exports were cut off in July owing to low market prices prevailing in foreign countries and the continued demand for oranges at home. This year, exchange officials are looking forward to an increased foreign market. The present year has seen more competition in foreign markets than was ever before experienced. In eastern Canada large shipments of oranges were received in the winter from Spain and Palestine and in the summer from South America and South Africa."

Canadian government officials are interested in developing shipments from British possessions.

Competing Products
Competing citrus products with the California valencia were mentioned by the speaker as the Japanese satsuma in British Columbia and the Florida grape fruit of which he said an equal amount was grown as the California oranges. Shipments of grapefruit from Florida were the heaviest ever known, King said.

King called attention to the fact that when a crop of small sizes is to be marketed, a factor in favorable marketing conditions is found in the fact that the consumer no longer thinks in terms of oranges but more often in terms of orange juice. The demand for oranges must be kept up—it must be seen that prices are reasonable—it must be seen that the grower gets the largest part of each dollar paid for the fruit, and it must be seen that the consumer is satisfied with the quality, he declared.

By a newly installed teletype system, growers are kept in touch with everything going on at the Los Angeles, Kinko Sunbury of the Hagenbeck Wallace Show, gave two concert acts. Sunbury is a former resident of this city. Two selections were given by the Lions quartet, two dances and songs by Shirley Valentine.

CITRUS FRUIT CONDITIONS IN SPAIN OUTLINED

ORANGE, Dec. 2.—Harold Wahlberg, Orange county farm adviser traced the resemblance of the country surrounding Valencia, Spain, with Orange county, at a meeting of directors and managers of the packing plants connected with the Orange County Fruit exchange. Wahlberg, who returned recently from a trip abroad, declared that in this part of Spain may be found the same rolling hills, the same climate and the same crops.

The most prosperous part of Spain is found in the citrus belt, the speaker related, as he described how the groves are walled with high adobe walls against the public, the walls making a very monotonous landscape quite unlike the lovely green of the California groves. Orange land in this part of Spain is about $1000 an acre and as the dollar there has about two or three times the buying power of the dollar here, the price is thus about the same as here from $2000 to $3000 an acre, he said.

Wahlberg gave an interesting picture of the packing plants of Spain. California methods of packing are fast being introduced, he said. A few years ago no modern machinery was to be found in them and now, he related, the old and new methods of packing are found in the same house. The old method is to place oranges on about six inches of rice straw while girls sit at the edges of the straw sorting and packing.

The "medit" in Spain does not need to be considered seriously, he said, as the fruit is marketed in the winter when the fly is dormant. The old orchards are not planted in rows, he said, and only manual labor can be used in their cultivation.

Wahlberg exhibited a collection of labels from packing houses which resemble those used in America and told of seeing oranges in the London market from Italy, Spain, South Africa, the West Indies, Brazil and South America at the same time.

He spoke briefly on a trip to Russia and told of the possibilities of citrus culture along the shores of the Black sea. Russia, considers the orange a luxury and is now trying to establish herself as a completely self supporting country, he said in speaking of marketing citrus fruits in that country. Lemons in Georgia sell for $1.50 a piece, he said.

In closing the meeting Lucien Flippin, prominent orange grower here, declared in the course of brief remarks, that all orange growers were optimists.

The Scarab Murder Case

A PHILO VANCE STORY BY S. S. VAN DINE

"As I remember—I really didn't pay much attention—he told Kyle that the crates had been unpacked, and added that he wanted Kyle to inspect their contents.... You see, there was some doubt whether Kyle would finance another expedition. The Egyptian Government had been somewhat snooty, and had retained most of the choicest items for the Cairo Museum. Kyle didn't like this, and as he had already put bodies of money in the enterprise, he was inclined to back out. No thanks for him, you understand.... In fact, Kyle's attitude was the cause of the conference. Doctor Bliss wanted to show him the exact cost of the former excavations and try to induce him to finance a continuation of the work....

"And the old boy refused to do it," supplemented Heath; "and then the doctor got excited and cracked him over the head with that black baton."

"You will insist that life is so simple, Sergeant," sighed Vance. "I'd sure hate to think it was as complex as you make it, Mr. Vance." Heath's retort came very near to an expression of dignified sarcasm.

The words were scarcely out of his mouth when the main door was opened quietly and a middle-aged, dark-complexioned man in native Egyptian costume appeared at the head of the front stairs. He surveyed us with inquisitive calm, and slowly and with great deliberation of movement, descended into the museum.

"Good-morning, Mr. Scarlett," he said, with a sardonic smile. He glanced at the murdered man. "I observe that tragedy has visited this household."

"Yes, Hani," Scarlett spoke with a certain condescension. "Mr. Kyle has been murdered. These gentlemen"—he made a slight gesture in our direction—"are investigating the crime."

Hani bowed gravely. He was of medium height, somewhat slender, and gave one the impression of contemptuous aloofness. There was a distinct glint of racial animosity in his close-set eyes. His face was relatively short—he was markedly dolichocephalic—and his straight nose had the typical rounded extremity of the true Copt. His eyes were brown—the color of his skin—and his eyebrows bushy. He wore a close-cut, semi-gray beard, and his lips were full and sensual. His head was covered by a soft dark turban bearing a pendant tassel of blue silk, and about his shoulders hung a long kaftan of which fell to his ankles and barely revealed his yellow-leather babushes.

He stood for a full minute looking down at Kyle's body, without any trace of repugnance or even regret. Then he lifted his head and contemplated the statue of Anubis. A queer devotional expression came over his face; and presently his lips curled in a faint sardonic smile. After a moment he made a sweeping gesture with his left hand and, turning slowly, faced us. But his eyes were not on us—they were fixed on some distant point far beyond the front windows.

"There is no need for an investigation, gentlemen," he said, in a sepulchral tone. "It is the judgment of Sakmet. For many generations the sacred tombs of our forefathers have been violated by the treasure-seeking Occidental. But the gods of old Egypt were powerful gods and protected their children. They have been patient. But the despoilers have gone too far. It was time for the wrath of their vengeance to strike. And it has struck. The tomb of Intef, Sakmet has pronounced her judgment. Just as she did when she slaughtered the rebels at Henensu to protect her father, Re, against their treason."

He paused and drew a deep breath. "But Anubis will never guide a sacrilegious gladiator to the Halls of Osiris—however reverently he may plead...."

Both Hani's manner and his words were impressive; and as he spoke I remembered, with an unpleasant feeling, the recent tragedy of Lord Carnarvon and the strange tales of ancient sorcery that sprang up to account for his death on supernatural grounds.

"Quite unscientific, don't you know," Vance's voice cynical and drawing, brought me quickly back to the world of reality. "I seriously question the ability of that piece of black igneous rock to accomplish a murder unless wielded by ordinary human hands.... And if you must talk tosh, Hani, we'd be tremendously obliged if you'd do it in the privacy of your bedchamber. It's most boring."

The Egyptian shot him a look of hatred.

"The West has much to learn from the East regarding matters of the soul," he pronounced oracularly. "I dare say," Vance smiled blandly. "But the soul is not now under discussion. The West, which you despise, is prone to practicality; and you'd do well to forgo the met-red-and-white striped cotton, empychois for the nonce and answer a few questions which the District Attorney would like to put to you."

Hani bowed his acquiescence; and Markham, taking his cigar from his mouth, fixed a stern look upon him.

"Where were you all this forenoon?" he asked.

"In my room—up-stairs. I was not well."

"And you heard no sounds in the museum here?"

"It would have been impossible for me to hear any sound in this room."

"And you saw no one enter or leave the house?"

"No. My room is at the rear, and I did not leave it until a few moments ago."

Vance put the next question.

"Why did you leave it then?"

"I had work to do here in the museum," the man replied sullenly.

"But I understand you heard Doctor Bliss make an appointment with Mr. Kyle for eleven this morning. Vance was watching Hani sharply. "Did you intend to interrupt the conference?"

"I had forgotten about the appointment." The answer did not come spontaneously. "If I had found Doctor Bliss and Mr. Kyle in conference I would have returned to my room."

"To be sure," Vance's tone held a tinge of sarcasm. "I say, Hani, what's your full name?"

The Egyptian hesitated, but only for a second. Then he said, "Anupu Hani."

"Vance's eyebrows went up, and there was irony in the slow smile that crept to the corners of his mouth. "Anupu," he repeated. "Most alluring. Anupu, I believe, was the Egyptian form for Anubis, what? You would seem to be identified with that unpleasant-looking gentleman in the corner, with the jackal's head."

Hani compressed his thick lips and made no response.

"It really doesn't matter, you know," Vance remarked lightly. "By the by, wasn't it you who placed the small statue of Sakmet atop the cabinet yonder?"

"Yes. It was unpacked yesterday."

"And was it you who drew the curtain across the end cabinet?"

"Yes—at Doctor Bliss's request. The objects in it were in great disarray. We had not yet had time to arrange them."

Vance turned thoughtfully to Scarlett.

"Just what was said by Doctor Bliss to Mr. Kyle over the phone last night?"

"I think I've told you everything, old man," Scarlett appeared both puzzled and startled at Vance's persistent curiosity on this point. "He simply made the appointment for eleven o'clock, saying he'd have the financial report ready at that time."

"And what did he say about the financial report?"

"Yes—we all heard it." The Egyptian had become morose; but I noticed that he was studying Vance surreptitiously from the corner of his eye.

"And I take it," mused Vance, "any one who knew Kyle would have surmised that he would come early to inspect the items in that end cabinet.... Eh, Scarlett?"

Scarlett shifted uneasily and looked at the great figure of the serene Kha-of-Re.

"Well—since you put it that way—yes.... Fact is, Vance, Doctor Bliss suggested that Mr. Kyle come early and have a peep at the treasures."

"These ramifications had begun to irritate Sergeant Heath.

"Pardon me, Mr. Vance," he blurted, with ill-concealed annoyance; "but do you happen to be the defense attorney for this Doctor Bliss? If you aren't working hard to alibi him, I'm the Queen of Sheba."

"You're certainly not Solomon, Sergeant," returned Vance. "Don't you care to weigh all the possibilities?"

"Weigh hell!" Heath was losing his temper. "I want a heart-to-heart talk with this guy who wore that beetle-pin and drew up that report. I know clean-cut evidence when I see it."

"I don't doubt that for a moment," Vance spoke dulcely. "But even clean-cut evidence may have various interpretations...."

Snitkin threw open the door noisily at this point, and Doctor Doremus, the Medical Examiner, tripped jauntily down the stairs. He was a thin, nervous man, with a seamed, prematurely old face which carried a look at once crabbed and jocular.

"Good-morning, gentlemen," he greeted us breezily. He shook hands perfunctorily with Markham and Heath, and squaring off, gave Vance an exaggeratedly disgruntled look.

"Well, well!" he exclaimed, tilting his straw hat at an even more rakish angle. "Wherever there's a murder I find you, sir. He glanced at his wrist watch. "Lunch time, a George!" His flashing gaze moved about the museum and came to rest on one of the anthropoid mummy cases. "This place don't look healthy.... Where's the body, Sergeant?"

Heath had been standing before the prostrate body of Kyle. He now moved aside and pointed to the dead man.

"That's him, doc."

Doremus came forward and peered indifferently at the corpse.

"Well, he's dead," he pronounced, cocking his eye at Heath.

"Honest to Gawd!" The Sergeant was good-naturedly sarcastic.

"That's the way it strikes me—though since Carrel's experiments you never can tell.... Anyway, I'll stand by my decision." He chuckled, and kneeling down, touched one of Kyle's hands. Then he moved one of the dead man's legs aside.

"And he's been dead for about two hours—not longer, maybe less." Heath took out a large handkerchief and, with great care, lifted the black statue of Sakmet from Kyle's head.

"I'm saving this for fingerprints.... Any signs of a struggle, doc?"

THE OLDEST SANTA ANA INSURANCE OFFICE

Mitchell Paint Store To Open Formally On December 6

As he approaches the beginning of his 24th year in business in Santa Ana, Charles Mitchell well known paint and wall paper dealer, has opened a fine new store on North Sycamore street, between Third and Fourth streets.
The opening also marks the move of the store to the center of the business district after it has been located in the east part of the shopping section of the city for 15 years.

The new store, the formal opening of which is to be celebrated with a public reception next Saturday, December 6, is one of the finest and most modern in the entire state. The opening is to start with an open house and demonstrations commencing Wednesday and continuing through the rest of the week, with three fine guest gifts to be given after a selection of the recipients which is scheduled for Saturday night.
Mitchell, who has been in the paint business for 30 years, operates a wholesale and retail paint and wall paper store, carrying a complete line of Pittsburgh Plate Glass company paints and varnishes and one of the best lines of wall paper that it is possible to obtain. Mitchell and his father opened a store in a room across the street from the postoffice in January 1908. This was known as J. W. Mitchell and Son, but the management of the business was taken over by the son after a few years.

A distinction enjoyed by Mitchell is that he is the second oldest dealer in the state carrying the Pittsburgh Plate Glass company products. He is the oldest dealer for this firm south of San Francisco.

The new store is the last word in convenience of arrangement and modern fixtures. Mitchell has been advised by many traveling salesmen who stop at his store that it is the finest they have seen and that there is nothing else like it in the country. Special

HOOKS and SLIDES

WILLIAM BRAUCHER

DID YOU KNOW THAT—

Though he probably will not admit it, Joe Savoldi will wear the uniform of the Green Bay Packers pro football team next year, we are advised. . . . A gentleman from Dallas, Tex., is said to have paid $350 for four seats at the Notre Dame-Northwestern game. . . . Penn graduates recently decided modern football was a "racket" . . . every place else but at Penn. . . . The fullback of the New York Giants is a fellow named Feather. . . . Gil Berry, who happens to be most of Bob Zupke's backfield this year, nearly went to Iowa instead of Illinois. . . . Prof. S. E. La Marr, principal of Abingdon, Ill., high school, painted a glowing picture of the wonders of Illinois. . . . So Gil went to Champaign. . . . When one of the Fordham players had the wind knocked out of him in the recent tussle with St. Mary's, one of the St. Mary's players picked him up and rubbed his tummy until he could breathe again.

HELLO, FIRPI!

Business must be pretty bad in South America, too. There is no other explanation for the rash act of Luis Angel Firpo in calling Madison Square Garden, long distance, from Buenos Aires and offering his professional fistic services. Firpo wouldn't care to fight again unless he had to, you may safely wager, and Firpo's spending a couple of hundred bucks for a phone call means that he probably is just beginning to feel the effects of some of those Dempsey punches. If there is anything Luis loves better than nickels it is dimes.

IS IT LOVE?

Jimmy Slattery comes forth with a challenge to fight heavyweight champion Max Baer. And, since Maxie has accepted, perhaps we are to see a revival of such beautiful fistic friendships as existed between Benny Leonard and Johnny Dundee. Leonard and Dundee fought one another about eight times. But wait! Ted Kilt Lewis and Jack Britton fought 22 times. And the 22nd fight was as bitter as the first.

BE BRAVE, MY LADS

Suppose you shoot around 100. For years you have tried to break 100 but you never quite make it. Should you hurt yourself into the sea? No. For we have just learned that the average golfer shoots 107.1. The report has been duly attested and filed by J. W. F. Macdonald, handicapper of the Arlmont Country club at Arlington, Mass., and is based upon 2763 cards turned in by 201 players. Forty-six per cent of the players who turned in cards never had broken 100. So you can send back that rope to the hardware store and order some more golf balls.

IT JUST GREW

Now that the tumult and shouting about Southern California football practices have died down, everybody on the coast is busy denying they had a voice in starting it. . . . Meanwhile, Washington State, which merely played the best football on the coast this year, may be quoted as saying that at this time there is nothing to say.

ROCKNE'S CRITICS

At the end of the 1928 football season, voices were raised here and there querulously, asking if K. K. Rockne had such a fine gridiron "system" after all. Notre Dame that year had been beaten by Wisconsin, Carnegie Tech, Southern California and Georgia Tech. The answer seems to be, "Oh, yes."

BROOKLYN BUILDS

The Dodgers, enjoying in 1930 the best season the club ever had, are building a new double-decked stand to seat 40,000. It is a good investment, even if Robble's boys wind up behind the eight-ball in 1931, because the Brooklyn fans support the Robins whenever the team be good or bad. By the way, next year it should be good.

TROY MADE FAVORITE OVER IRISH Robbleto Tossed Out For 'Pulling Punches'

REFEREE'S ACT ENDING MATCH CALLED HASTY

BY EDDIE WEST

(Sports Editor of The Register)

Unceremoniously ejected from the Orange County Athletic club's ring, his license revoked and his purse withheld, Canto (TNT) Robbleto was an officially discredited boxer in the state of California today.

But nobody seemed to know exactly why except Ben McFarland, the referee, who halted the Delhi arena's main event in the middle of the fifth round and disqualified Robbleto for stalling last night.

The bout was to have gone eight rounds.

Robbleto's opponent, Young Sport, who had a slender edge on points up to the abrupt conclusion of the match, was acknowledged winner before McFarland left the ring after handing boxing another black eye.

Now I don't believe anyone is more suspicious of the fight game than your correspondent. I am one of those die-hard fans willing to believe the defendant guilty until proved otherwise, and I have said so on numerous occasions.

Correspondent Fooled

But I guess I am slipping. I must need spectacles.

I was sitting there enjoying what I thought was a dandy boxing match between a couple of clever young flyweights when McFarland suddenly stepped between Robbleto and Sport, ordered Robbleto to his corner, raised Sport's hand in token of victory and just as hurriedly left the ring without a word of explanation to the thousands-or-so spectators who apparently were left as much in the dark as I.

McFarland said something to Robbleto during the previous round, and went to Canto's corner between the fourth and fifth heats too, but such deportment is not unusual for a hustling referee, and those in our row gave it no thought.

In fact, mighty few in the house had any idea why McFarland stopped the affair. I didn't. I'll admit, and I used my prerogative as a newsman to interview McFarland and find out. I was sort of laboring under an impression that Robbleto might have been tossed out for "heeling," an illegal practice of hitting.

McFarland Tells Why

I found McFarland a bit excited and nervous, but courteous and firm.

He said he disqualified Robbleto for not giving his best efforts.

He said he was convinced that Robbleto was "pulling his punches."

"Did you warn Robbleto before you stopped the fight?" I asked.

"Twice," the referee replied.

"Did you warn his seconds?"

"No, the seconds weren't doing the fighting were they?"

"Did you hear or observe anything beside Robbleto's lack of initiative that led you to become suspicious?"

"No. I was satisfied that Robbleto was holding his punches. That was all there was to it."

Referee's Action Hasty

McFarland's integrity cannot be questioned. He acted for what he believed the best interests of boxing. But he was very hasty.

In football and basketball they term his action "over-officiating."

He was too much like the motor cop who is on the road for your protection but who glares at you from behind his big goggles in such a way that you feel easier when he is out of sight. In other words, I fear McFarland was looking for trouble.

Robbleto and Sport started out like a house afire.

Sport had a shade in the first two rounds but suffered a severe cut over his left eye from which the gore oozed in a surprising manner for a punch that had been "pulled."

Robbleto won the third and the fourth was even. These were fast rounds, too, with Canto employing his longer reach to good advantage. Action was slower in the fifth, I'll admit, but everybody seemed to be satisfied and all seemed surprised when McFarland halted proceedings in the next frame.

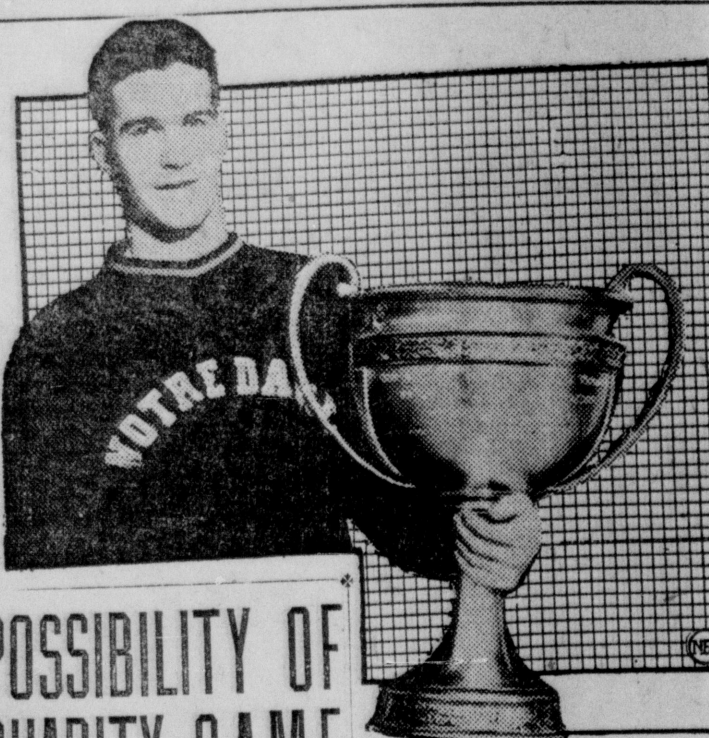

Robbleto Draws Suspension

The state will confiscate Robbleto's license.

NATIONAL CHAMPS GET IT

While we're wondering who will win the national football championship, the balloting of a jury of 265 sports editors is going on to determine what team is entitled to the Albert Russell Erskine award, championship emblem shown below in the arms of Tom Conley, Notre Dame captain. Notre Dame won it last year and, for want of a better guess, most of us will vote "Irish" again this year. Anyhow, if Southern California doesn't stop the Rockets December 6, who will?

POSSIBILITY OF CHARITY GAME IN L. A. REMOTE

LOS ANGELES, Dec. 2.—Possibility of a post-season charity game here December 20 between the University of Southern California and some other strong football team has dwindled somewhat, it was said here today.

Although officials at the Trojan school were non-committal it was believed that a number of elements have entered into the situation.

One of the leading reasons for the present uncertainty, it was known, was the fact that experts in gridiron management feel that the "public appetite" might not support a football game presented between such classics as the Notre Dame-Southern California battle next Saturday and the Alabama-Washington State contest at Pasadena on New Year's Day.

The undefeated Utah university eleven still is the desired opponent for U. S. C. in case a game materializes, it was said unofficially at the Trojan school.

St. Mary's was invited to play Southern California in the Coliseum here but declined because the Gaels already had promised a San Francisco children's hospital to play in San Francisco in a benefit contest December 13.

The Gaels also are having trouble finding an opponent as U. S. C. declined to play in the bay city because Los Angeles unemployment relief agencies desired a game here. Colgate, a strong Eastern team, refused to come west due to transportation pressure.

A Trojan official who declined to be quoted said that there still was a chance for the charity game here but that things were in such an unsettled condition after the failure of the negotiations with St. Mary's that the university was in no position to invite any opponent at the present time.

UTAH TIRES OF WAITING, TURNS IN SUITS

SALT LAKE CITY, Utah, Dec. 2.—Disappointed and, perhaps a bit disgruntled, Utah university has definitely foregone all hopes of a post-season game with the University of Southern California, December 20, or any other date.

The undefeated, untied Utes, whose team is said to be the greatest in Rocky Mountain conference history, today tossed their football suits among moth balls and prepared for basketball.

The university has been on "pins and needles" for days awaiting some definite invitation from U. S. C. to play a charity game for unemployment relief at Los Angeles. So-called "feelers" have been extended and the college was given to understand it was one of the teams favored for such a game. Final decision, according to word received here, was to have been made Monday. But Monday came and still no definite word was received. Instead Bill Hunter, graduate manager, informed Utah's coach, Ike Armstrong, action had been deferred.

That was enough for Armstrong and other Utah authorities. He announced the football season closed insofar as Utah was concerned.

"It wouldn't be fair to the boys to keep them in suits practicing on a frozen field when our chances for a game with U. S. C. are, at the most, rather hazy," he explained. "It's a closed incident, insofar as we are concerned."

Suitcase With Cougar Charts Stolen

NEW YORK, Dec. 2.—A suitcase containing charts and plays to be used in the Tournament of Roses game with Alabama, New Year's day, was stolen from the Washington State football team along with $70 and a gold watch at a hotel here Saturday night, it became known today.

Jacob Kirby, identified as a "crasher" at a party given the team to celebrate a victory over Villanova, was arraigned in west side court and denied any knowledge of the stolen goods.

Lutz, a regular, is sure to be ready for action, his injured elbow being in much better shape now than it was a week ago. Olsen is still favoring an ankle bruise but probably will be available if needed. Meisinger's dislocated elbow is likely to keep him on the bench, however.

Fullerton benefits by the return to condition of Tom McCormick, veteran first string left end, who was counted out of the Thanksgiving Day quarrel with injuries.

As game-day draws nearer, indications are that Oliver will stick pretty closely to the lineup that started against Long Beach, and gave the Saints their best-played effort of the season. Blower and Damer probably will start at end, Reichstein and Minter at guard, Norton at center, and Rebohn, Pangole, Higashi and Kidder in the backfield.

SAINTS BATTLE FULLERTON IN FINALE FRIDAY

With some of the original glamour and color of the contest somewhat missing, the Saints of Santa Ana and the Indians of Fullerton battle in the 1930 high school football season's grand finale at Poly field here Friday afternoon.

Players and fans alike were keyed up to high pitch when the "Big Game" was to have been played Thanksgiving Day and the week's postponement because of rain undoubtedly took some of the edge off the one time county classic.

Yet, while the set-to will sort of resemble a Christmas tree on the morning of December 26, lots and lots of football should be spread before the boys and girls.

Eager to wind up their seasons in glorious triumph, both Santa Ana and Fullerton can be depended on to put up their greatest games of the entire season. Coach "Tex" Oliver's Saints will be heavily favored to over an eleven that hasn't won a game all year, but the traditional fight engendered in all Fullerton teams may send Coach Ernest Y. Johnson's boys into the fray with almost an even chance for victory.

The weeks' delay in hostilities unquestionably helped both sides. It may have given Santa Ana the services of three valuable linemen—Garth Olsen, guard; "Gib" Meisinger, end and center, and Lawrence Lutz, tackle.

Lutz, a regular, is sure to be ready for action, his injured elbow being in much better shape now than it was a week ago. Olsen is still favoring an ankle bruise but probably will be available if needed. Meisinger's dislocated elbow is likely to keep him on the bench, however.

REFEREE STOPS MAIN EVENT AT DELHI'S ARENA

Leto's purse and the boxer will draw an automatic suspension of at least 60 days.

Vincent Martinez outslugged Warren Frakes in the six-round semi, the Mexican lightweight winning the first four as well as the last round. Martinez was stronger and boxed better, but Frakes was aggressive enough to keep him going at top speed.

Substituting for Dell Price, Heavyweight Frank Rudzinski decisively defeated Tim Charles although the fans booed McFarland's decision lustily. Rudzinski won nearly every round and floored his fleshy foe twice in the fourth. Harry O'Hannigan gave Henry Forrester a terrible beating, Forrester showing remarkable ability to absorb punishment.

The opening event between Luis Echeveste and Roy Salisbury was absolutely the greatest slugfest in the history of the Orange County Athletic club. It should have been the main event. Echeveste got the decision after the boys hit each other with everything except Promoter H. T. Foust's sombrero. Both fighters were on the floor several times and in the middle of the fourth and last round were down at the same time.

Urban Hernandez and Joe Galvis meet in the windup next Monday night. Tony Moreno appears in the semi.

They tell me that Al Rebohn, Santa Ana high school's greatest all-time all-around athlete, is going out for basketball this winter in an effort to earn to earn his ninth letter in three years of sports campaigning here.

Such a feat would establish another record for "Audacious Al." Rebohn is now tied with Curt Younel, the ex-Saint who played center for the Trojan frosh eleven this year, in the number of monograms won. Rebohn has three in track, three in football and two in baseball. Younel won three in baseball and basketball and two in football.

Rebohn graduates in February but will be eligible long enough to win a basketball letter—if he can make the team, which is quite probable.

Continue Boxing Probe This Week

LOS ANGELES, Dec. 2.—Investigation into the boxing situation in California will be continued here Thursday and Friday by Gov. C. Young's boxing committee, of which Allen C. Bixby is chairman.

Bixby stated that the purpose of the committee was to determine what evils exist in the boxing game, what remedial measures may be taken if evils are discovered and how the sport may be kept clean and free of "racketeering" in the future.

was to Washington State, 7-6, when the Trojans failed to convert the extra point for a tie.

For those who believe the game might be close it is well to know that out of 58 touchdowns this season scored, Southern California has kicked only 32 extra points, or about 55 per cent.

Twice in the past two years Notre Dame has won games by the margin of this single extra point. Frank Carideo, Notre Dame's consistent place kicker, has made good 24 out of 29 attempts at goal after touchdown this year, and has kicked the last 10 in a row.

Stacy secret practice has been instituted for the Southern California squad this week. Behind guarded gates the Trojans are being carefully groomed by Jones and Aubrey Devine, former Iowa quarterback who has scouted the Irish in four games—Pennsylvania, Drake, Northwestern and Army.

Notre Dame's squad of 35 players is not due here until Friday night after stopping off for two days' practice at Tucson, Ariz.

On the other side of the room is located the wall paper sample bins, and in storage bins behind a partition, extending the full length of the room, 100 feet, are the stock bins for keeping the wall paper line in the best condition, and the most convenient manner. Szarfinski made his application in person at last night's city council meeting, and it was referred to the council's water committee. The course will need a maximum of 150,000 gallons of water daily, instead of the 300,000 gallons asked in the former application.

Eckles Withdraws Request For Permit To Run Taxis

BUS AND TAXI WAR IN CITY COMES TO END

Finis was written last night to the war that has been waged between the Santa Ana bus company and the local taxi cab concerns when C. H. Eckles, owner of the bus lines, filed a brief note with the city council, requesting the withdrawal of his application for permission to operate a taxi service in connection with his bus service. The brief note added that his position in the matter had been misrepresented to the public. The withdrawal of Eckles' request was ordered without comment or discussion.

Devoted entirely to the disposal of routine matters, including action on pending applications for permits, was the brief session held last night at the city hall. In the absence of Mayor Frank L. Purinton, who departed last Saturday for Mexico City, Councilman Stanley E. Goode acted as chairman pro tem. Councilman Bert Sutton also was absent, leaving but three members to act on matters before the board.

There being no protests, either written or oral, against a proposed re-zoning of the southwest corner of Ross and Fairview, located in Palmer Square, so as to permit the

CRANSTON SAYS BUILDING OF CHARACTER FUNDAMENTAL AIM OF EDUCATION IN SCHOOLS

Commenting today on the recent discussion of right objectives in education and what subjects are essential and what are non-essential in the courses of study, which grew out of publication in the Register of a story on aims of education and letters from several interested persons, Superintendent of Schools J. A. Cranston stated that he had come to the conclusion that wrong impressions seem to prevail in the minds of some citizens of the city as to what has been done and what is being done in plans of the administration for training the youth of the city.

OFFICE FORCE IS CHOSEN BY RAY ADKINSON

Ray Adkinson, who was elected county superintendent of schools at the general election last month, today announced the selection of his deputies and assistants. The present staff of supervisors will be retained intact for the present, he stated.

Office deputies are Gertrude Collier, president of the Santa Ana post of the American Legion auxiliary and wife of Dean Collier, assistant cashier of the Farmers and Merchants bank, and Yvonne Irwin, of Fullerton, who recently graduated from the Woodbury commercial college in Los Angeles.

The staff of supervisors which is to be unchanged as the new school official assumes his duties next month includes B. F. Beswick, of Tustin, rural supervisor; Irene A. Loose, of Huntington Beach, music supervisor; Dora Glines, of Orange, penmanship supervisor; Evadne K. Perry, of La Habra, art supervisor, and Schuler Biglow of Tustin, attendance supervisor. Biglow succeeded W. C. Roberts as attendance officer last summer, it is reported.

"Definitions of education and objectives in education necessarily change with the needs and demands of a changing civilization," the city superintendent asserted, "but our general and fundamental aim in education has been, and should continue to be character training from the kindergarten, through the elementary, junior high schools, senior high school and junior college."

"The kindergarten age is from four and one-half to six years. It is in the kindergarten that the child makes his first contact with the public schools. Coming from parental control it is very important that his first impressions of school life be favorable and happy. Here he comes under the care and thoughtful guidance of a trained child teacher—one whose training has prepared her to anticipate the needs and wishes of little children, one who is in hearty sympathy and co-operation with the parents during this most impressionable school age."

"Leaving the kindergarten at six years of age the child enters a six year course in what is known as our elementary schools. Here he receives training in the so-called fundamentals of an education—reading, writing, spelling, arithmetic, geography, history, language, elementary civics, music, art, nature study, health habits and physical education."

"Possibly the greatest difference between the old and the new in education is found in the elimination of the non-essentials in the above named subjects. For example in spelling we limit the number of words as far as possible to the child's natural speaking and writing vocabulary. Life is too short and time too important to spend in teaching children to spell words which will seldom if ever use."

"The same is true in arithmetic. We stress and drill in the four so-called fundamentals, addition, subtraction, multiplication and division, fractions, decimals and percentage, confining the work to meet the needs of business transactions. Similar changes have been made in determining the essentials in the other elementary school subjects. Here the child learns much that is not found in books but often of more importance. He is living in a small democracy where he is brought in contact with a great variety of traits of character and learns to respect the rights of others, a valuable lesson in self-discipline and self-restraint."

Superintendent Cranston advised that articles on the objectives in the junior and senior high schools and the junior college together with the subjects offered and the reasons for the same, are being prepared by the principals of these schools and would be released at an early date.

BREAKFASTERS WILL MEET AT KETNER'S CAFE

The first meeting of the Breakfast club in its new location, Ketner's cafe, will be held Thursday morning at 7:30 o'clock, and officers of the organization are anticipating an unusually large attendance for the special program which has been arranged.

The committee chairman, Earl Morrow, with the assistance of the other members of the committee, Art Cannon, Jack Cope and Guy Gilbert, has provided a very unusual program. It was learned today. One of the features will be the appearance of the Telephone Girls Glee club of 20 voices.

President, B. Z. McKinney is urging that each member of the club bring a guest to the meeting tomorrow. George Boyd, chairman of the Christmas program committee, will announce the date of the annual Christmas program at the meeting tomorrow.

ANNUAL DAIRY DAY PROGRAM IS ANNOUNCED

The program for the annual dairy day observance under the auspices of the dairy department of the Orange County Farm Bureau and the Agricultural extension service, which is to be held tomorrow, was announced today by W. M. Cory, assistant farm advisor.

The group will start the day with a visit to the John Jansma dairy one quarter of a mile south of the Paulino school on the Newport road, at 10:30 a. m. The next stop will be at the Raitt dairy plant on West Seventeenth street, which they are scheduled to reach at 11:30 a. m. A regular program has been arranged for the afternoon session after lunch.

Speakers and the subjects which they will discuss are as follows: R. D. Flaherty, executive secretary of the Farm Bureau, "Organization in the Dairy Industry"; John W. Crill, president of the Farm Bureau, "The Farm Bureau—a Service Organization"; Harold A. Wahlberg, Orange county farm advisor, "Observations on Marketing Dairy Products in Europe"; J. E. Gordon, extension specialist in dairying, from the University of California, "Has Cow Testing and the Use of Purebred Sires Paid the Dairyman?"; W. M. Cory, assistant farm advisor, "Economic Feeding of a Dairy Herd"; and Dr. J. P. Iverson, chief of the division of animal industry of the state department of agriculture, "Regulation and Methods of Eradicating Dairy Cattle Diseases."

COMING HERE THIS MONTH

"Peanuts," famous movie elephant, who will take part in the Orange County Peace Officers' Circus, here December 12-13th.

ELEPHANTS TO TAKE PART IN HUGE CIRCUS

"Peanuts," the world's largest elephant, and a star in his own right, having been one of the stars in many jungle pictures that proved tremendous hits the past few years, will be one of the features of the Orange County Peace Officers' Circus, in Santa Ana, December 12-13.

Children in all parts of the world know and love "Peanuts." He has millions of admirers from all parts of the country who have written to Al W. Copeland, the director of the circus, for a picture of "Peanuts" and should Mr. Copeland have sent all the pictures that have been requested of him, it would cost a fortune.

What makes "Peanuts" so popular, especially with the children? It is because any child can play around him, and would be safer than playing in the streets.

"Regent," the Shetland pony that also will appear, is a pal of "Peanuts" and both can be seen munching hay together in the big animal tent, where they keep the animals. "Regent" was brought to this country by Tom Mix when he toured Europe a few years ago, and appeared in movies since he landed in this country.

Lots of funny clowns will create gales of laughter with their funny antics, with their funny automobiles, trained mules and many other mechanical contraptions.

The circus grounds are located at East Fourth street and Garfield, on the tract of the Union Pacific company. Doors will open early to accommodate the crowds.

There will be two performances each day, in the afternoon and 8 at night.

The proceeds will go to the relief fund of the Orange County Peace Officers' association.

Although the many friends of Miss Viola Dyer, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. J. Dyer, 1035 East First street and Glenn J. Vickroy anticipated their wedding as an event of Saturday night, they did not expect the ceremony to take place at 5 o'clock in the evening as it did, rather three hours later according to previous plans.

The affair took place in the sanctuary of the First Presbyterian church in Orange county, with the Rev. Thomas H. Walker officiating. The only attendants were Mrs. M. F. Andrade, of Anaheim, and Mrs. Walker, the pastor's wife.

Miss Dyer was a charming bride in a dark blue frock with hat, shoes, and gloves of harmonizing tones, and completed with a lovely fox fur.

Motoring back to this city the happy couple went immediately to the home of the bridegroom's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Vickroy, of 331 Normandie place. They enjoyed dinner with a little family group including the Vickroys and the Misses Fern and Nellie Vickroy, and Mr. and Mrs. Miss Ranbeau of San Diego.

Mr. and Mrs. Vickroy enjoyed a week-end honeymoon at Balboa beach, and are making their home at 2003 South Cypress avenue. Mrs. Vickroy, a graduate of the local high school, is employed with the Vincent Manufacturing company as she has been for the past four years. Mr. Vickroy is associated with his father, a building contractor, and is a graduate of Hollywood high school.

Home Ceremony United
Well-Known Couple
Saturday Evening

A number of Orange county residents were interested in a wedding which took place Saturday evening at 8 o'clock in the home of Lewis Sieveke in Anaheim when his daughter, Miss Lydia Sieveke and Arthur Schmidt of this city were married. The Rev. E. E. Burge, pastor of the Salem Evangelical church of Anaheim officiated.

The home, decorated with bouquets of brilliant-hued winter flowers provided an attractive setting for the ceremony. Miss Sieveke chose to wear a gown of deep blue crepe with harmonizing accessories, and was very lovely, indeed. Her sister, Miss Loretta Sieveke, served as bridesmaid, and wore a smart brown frock. Leo Morse of Beaumont attended Mr. Schmidt at his best man.

Others present at the wedding included Mrs. E. E. Burge, Irvin Sieveke, Elton, and Maynard Sieveke, Miss Opal Main, of Orange, and Cogel Foster of Westminster.

Mr. and Mrs. Schmidt plan to make their home in this city. Mr. Schmidt is employed with the Barnett Contracting company in Orange, and is a member of the Masonic lodge and American Legion of that city.

Several parties have been given for Mrs. Schmidt, and among the most recent of these was that when Miss Marie Melr and Miss Loretta Sieveke were hostesses in the latter's home in Anaheim. Pink and yellow flowers were used to decorate the rooms, and evidenced the chosen color scheme of the evening.

Coffee was played, and Miss Theresa Melr was awarded first prize while Mrs. Donald Osburn was consoled. Dainty refreshments were served at tables spread with pink cloths, and nut-cups in the same delicate tint bore wedding bells.

Those present, other than the hostesses and the honoree, were Miss Opal Main and Miss Louise Osburn, of Orange; Miss Theresa Melr, Fullerton; Miss Caroline Melr and Miss Katherine Melr, Placentia; Mrs. Donald Osburn, Bellflower, and Mrs. Emil Mosu-mann, Miss Lella Lebling, Miss Vernie Woods, Mrs. Robert Mat-ton and Mrs. Elton Sohr.

Those sharing the charming affair, other than Mrs. Sherrill, and Miss Sherrill, were Willis Sherrill, also of the home, Miss Violet Gardell, of Glendale, and Abbott Mason, Laurin Griggs, Mitchell Hookins, John Crowley and Bob Williams.

Business Women
Heard Former
Santa Anan

Miss Nellie Vance Wilson, of Los Angeles, formerly of Santa Ana, who is assistant director of Health and Corrective Physical Education in the Los Angeles schools, spoke in the Los Angeles and Professional Women at their noonday luncheon yesterday. Among them Miss Wilson numbers many acquaintances and it was in a friendly atmosphere that she told of her work among the physically handicapped children in the Los Angeles schools.

Her particular branch of responsibility is with the crippled children who are brought to a special school where they are happy to be together, where the handicap of each child appears less tragic to the child because he compares himself with the under a greater handicap. All the children are much helped by the fact that they are allowed to attend a regular school where they would be an "odd chick," and unable to participate in the more or less strenuous routine of the normal child, the speaker said.

Miss Wilson also told how they care for children who are tubercular, those with heart diseases, the blind, and the deaf. The results of their efforts with the deaf and the blind make it possible for those children to advance into the regular high school classes where, by sitting in the front seats near the teacher, they are able to learn enough by lip-reading to pass their grades creditably.

Of special interest were Miss Wilson's remarks regarding the possibility of heart diseases starting in children during the "rapid-growth" periods, which are approximately the years of seven and eleven. At these times it is particularly important for mothers and teachers to watch carefully and govern the children with this thought in mind constantly.

P. E. O. Members Spend Enjoyable Day In
Varied Pursuits

Combining philanthropy with their social and program features, members of Chapter A. B. P. E. O. yesterday shared an interesting meeting with Mrs. L. L. Whitson, president, and Mrs. George Bradley, in the Whitson home, 909 Spurgeon street. Meeting at 11 o'clock in the morning, they all sewed industriously on articles designed to carry on their charitable activities, pausing only at 1 o'clock to enjoy the appetizing luncheon menu served by Mrs. Whitson and Mrs. Bradley on individual trays, daintily arranged.

Mrs. Bruce Switzer, president, conducted the short business session of the early afternoon, which was succeeded in turn by an interesting program feature when Mrs. Terry E. Stephenson reviewed "Years of Grace" by Harriett Ayers Barnes. The book, dealing with the World War, and coming to the present day, was so admirably presented by Mrs. Stephenson, that its valuable features were given additional emphasis and interest.

Sharing the varied features of the day with Mrs. Whitson and Mrs. Bradley were Mesdames O. H. Barr, Holmes Bishop, George Bond, G. E. Brums, H. T. Dunning, O. H. Egge, J. E. Gowen, LeRoy Hall, Harry Hanson, Fred Rowland, Susan Rutherford, W. H. Spurgeon Jr., Terry E. Stephenson, Bruce Switzer, Emrys D. White, Grace Jordan of Long Beach, and the Misses Lida Crookshank, Gertrude Montgomery and Mary Wakeham.

Late in the afternoon refreshments were served at one large table, prettily decorated in a pink and green color scheme. A feature of the last course was a birthday cake, topped with lighted candles.

Autumn Theme Used
At Family Party
Held Recently

One of the enjoyable dinners of the holiday season was that with Mr. and Mrs. Murray Vandermast as hosts in their pretty home at 225 Wakeham street. An intimate little group of relatives was bidden to share the hospitality of the home.

The dining table expressed the autumn theme in delightful fashion, and was centered with a dish of fruit, while favors were candy turkeys. A tempting turkey dinner was served.

Merry House-warming
Planned By Friends
As Surprise

A cheerful blaze, leaping and crackling in the fireplace of the pretty new home of Mr. and Mrs. John H. Turton, 1325 Martha Lane, gave added meaning to the popular phrase, "house-warming" when a group of close friends assembled in the home Saturday evening, to join with Mr. and Mrs. Turton in dedicating it to hospitality and cheer through the years to come.

Plans for the pleasant affair originated with Mr. and Mrs. Roy Gowdy, and reached their climax with the arrival of the merry group of guests at the home of their unsuspecting hosts, and the latter's complete surprise.

The guests had left no details to chance, but in addition to making certain that Mr. and Mrs. Turton would be home, also planned for the evening of bridge which followed. Both high and low prizes consisted of boxes of delicious sweetmeats, and as fate decreed, were won by Carl Wiesseman, scoring high, and Mrs. Wiesseman, with low score.

Late in the evening appetizing sandwiches, pickles and coffee made a mysterious appearance, and were served at the small tables. The final enjoyable feature came when Mrs. Turton, on behalf of the guests, presented Mr. and Mrs. Turton with a pretty waste-paper basket to harmonize with the fittings of their guest room.

In the party, in addition to Mr. and Mrs. Turton, guests of honor in their own home, were Mr. and Mrs. Raymond Montgomery, Mr. and Mrs. O. F. Turner, Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth Stowe, Mr. and Mrs. Jesse Wright, Mr. and Mrs. Carl Wiesseman, Mr. and Mrs. Roy Gowdy, Mr. and Mrs. Francis Jacoby and Mr. and Mrs. Elmer C. Read.

Distinguished Guest Entertained In Bishop Home

Fortunate in having a brief breathing space between his appearance in the Southland and his recital engagements in San Francisco, Lee Pattison, world-famous concert pianist, took the opportunity to spend a few days with his friends of long standing, Mr. and Mrs. U. Holmes Bishop, in their delightful ranch home on Fairhaven avenue.

Mr. Pattison arrived on the day before Thanksgiving, having appeared in the Mater-Pattison concert on the previous evening, at the Philharmonic auditorium where the two artists were accorded a remarkable ovation. They will fill their engagements in San Francisco and then work gradually eastward, concluding their American tour in April and then leaving at once for European engagements.

At the wedding of Mr. and Mrs. Bishop in Boston a number of years ago Mr. Pattison served Mr. Bishop as best man, all three young people being extremely musical. Details of the wedding and of their careers since then proved most interesting reminiscences to the reunited friends, and Mr. Pattison especially enjoying his Thanksgiving celebration in the midst of the family circle composed of his hosts, Mr. and Mrs. Bishop, their young people, Miss Velma, a junior college student, Gordon and Noble, Mr. Bishop's sister, Mrs. M. P. Knight.

The handsome new grand piano recently placed in the Bishop home, came into its own when the world-famous artist spent many hours there during his several days' visit.

College Clubs Held
Brilliant Party
In Tustin

Featuring in one of the most brilliant affairs of the junior college season, members of Los Meninas entertained last evening in the spacious home of one of their pledges, Miss Lorna Allen, 720 West Main street, Tustin, with an evening of bridge. Guests were members and pledges of the two remaining restricted girls' clubs of the campus, the Moavs, and the Sisterhood of Spinsters.

Thirteen tables of bridge were employed throughout the evening, with scores added upon clever turkey tally cards. First prize of a dainty leather compact was awarded Miss Betty Maloney, while Miss Sherrill Spurgeon received a clever lip stick for second high, and Miss Louise Ward was awarded a lovely hand-made handkerchief for holding the lucky tally. Card table covers were replaced with dainty linens, and the fall motif further prevailed in the yellow nodding daisies which centered each table, and harmonized with the green glassware used. A refreshment course served with sparkling punch proved a delightful climax to the affair.

Harry Harlows Return
From Ten Weeks'
Journey

A boat trip via the Panama canal to New York was completed by an automobile tour of the United States for Mr. and Mrs. Harry S. Harlow who Saturday night returned to their home at 1920 North Ross street following a 10 weeks' journey.

The Santa Anans left here the middle of September, and upon landing in New York traveled to Detroit, Mich., where they purchased a new car and proceeded to tour the country by motor. Northern Maine and other New England states, where Mr. and Mrs. Harlow made their home formerly, were visited by the travelers.

They motored as far south as Pennsylvania, and continuing on their way, stopped at Cleveland, O., where they attended the convention of the National Standard Parts association. Mr. and Mrs. Harlow spent some time in St. Louis, leaving there Tuesday for Santa Ana.

The MIXING BOWL by ANN MEREDITH

It Isn't the Cost
As I said yesterday, it isn't the monetary value of the gift, but the care used in its selection that makes it appreciated... so... today... let's go shopping and see what we can find for a dollar, or even 50 cents.

If you shop in a certain popular store I cannot mention, but found from coast to coast, you will find low candle sticks in clear glass with sockets for two candles... two of these with tall colored candles will take our first dollar... and how the "gifted" will enjoy using them for her company dinners! Then in the fifty-cent class let's buy some young thing a box of assorted mending silk and a thimble small enough to fit her slender finger, and wrap this useful gift very nicely... and how about some sticks of sealing wax and perhaps a seal with one initial?

And for the same young thing some colorful, big, chiffon hankies (see how to make below). Perhaps you have a friend of either sex who loves gardening... why not a few choice bulbs or some small gardening gadget... or one or two of those painted earthenware flower pots?

For years 'n years, long before Madame Chanel made big chiffon hankies the style, I have been making them for myself and giving them to many of my friends... sometimes I use a pretty one to wrap up some tiny little gift. All through the year I buy odds and ends of plain or flowered chiffon. One and one-quarter yards, pieced on all four edges and hem-stitched into four squares, will make four lively big hankies, each twenty inches square. Cut through the hem-stitching and trim the pieced edges, iron flat and lay away until wanted. Two of them, with a tiny sachet bag makes a lovely gift.

TODAY'S RECIPE CINNAMON APPLES (For Six)

6 good baking apples
1 cup sugar
2-3 cup water
Juice of 1 lemon
Small handful cinnamon drop candies
6 tablespoons mincemeat.

Try this way of serving apple with roast pork or with roast duck. Or bake the apples without the mincemeat and serve them cold, with whipped cream, for dessert, or plain for breakfast. (When using them for dessert use a little more sugar and water, the syrup to be cooked down to a thin jelly after the apples are baked and removed to a dish.

Cut a thin slice off the stem end of the apple, nip out the blossom end, and with a spoon scoop out the seeds and leave a shallow cup in the stem end—this cup to hold the mincemeat.

Put the sugar and water to boil, measure the cinnamon drops by taking up a small handful, or what your fingers will pick up. Add them to the boiling syrup and when they are dissolved, place the apples in this syrup to cook for a few minutes, turning them end to end.

Put the apples in a deep baking dish (glass casserole is ideal) pour the syrup around them, squeeze the lemon juice over the apples, and fill the cups with mincemeat. Cover and bake until the apples

TWO GANGSTERS CORNERED

Lew Ayres and Charles Judals in a scene from "The Doorway to Hell," which is now showing at the Fox Broadway theater. The picture is said to be the best gangster film that has been brought to Santa Ana this year.

are tender, but not to the stage where the skins drop away from the pulp. Serve them, piping hot, as a definite part of the meat course, and on the same plate.

Each apple with its share of rich red jelly has a calory value of 225, most of which belongs in the energy making class.

You are sure to want the current leaflet, Candied Peel and Sweets. There will be last-minute gifts to plan and you will want a generous quantity of these delicious confections for use during the holiday season. Send a stamped, self-addressed envelope for a free copy this week.

Orange Hostess Gives Dinner Party

Mrs. J. H. Munhall of South Batavia street, Orange, entertained yesterday with a dinner party given in honor of the birthdays of her brother, William E. Porter, and of J. W. Law, 315 South Birch street, this city. Two big birthday cakes completed the lovely appointments of dinner table and the afternoon was spent in chat while later in the evening supper was served.

Those sharing the pleasant occasion with the hostess were, Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Law of Santa Ana; Mr. and Mrs. M. J. Rudert and son, Lester, of Los Angeles; Mr. and Mrs. J. H. Schroeder, of Redlands; Miss Belle Higginbotham, of San Diego; Lynne Correll, of Lake Arrowhead; Mrs. Beryl M. Robertson, Miss Laura Munhall and Kenneth Munhall, of Big Bear.

PHILADELPHIA — A working model of a submarine, complete in length of four feet, has been constructed by G. J. Loos here. Construction of the sub took two years. The undersea boat is made of copper, aluminum and brass and can make a speed of 10 knots an hour. Its hull contains more than 15,000 tiny rivets.

JENNY LIND FILM WELL TAKEN HERE

A singer, just reaching the height of her fame; a lover who, learning that he is to go blind, dares not love her longer; triumphs in opera, and tragedy under the tinsel and glitter of fame—these are the elements of "Jenny Lind," the drama in which Grace Moore, Metropolitan opera star, appears to screen fans in her first talking picture.

The picture, one that will appeal to every music lover in Santa Ana, is now playing at the Fox West Coast theater. It is a film that will touch the heart strings and at the same time will amuse and entertain as no picture that has been seen here recently.

The new Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer production, based on the life of Jenny Lind, famous Swedish opera star of the past, is a vivid romance of love versus duty, and besides being a charming love story and interesting drama, affords the singer some great opportunities in song.

Reginald Denny, heretofore seen in the farcical roles of "Madam Satan" and "Those Three French Girls," proves himself equally skillful at serious portrayal in the dramatic role of the lover who goes blind. Wallace Beery contributes another inimitable characterization as the jovial circus owner, P. T. Barnum; Jobyna Howland scores as the easily ruffled traveling companion of Jenny Lind, and competent work is done by Gus Shy, Gilbert Emery, George Marlon, Giovanni Martino, Bodil Rosing, Paul Porcasi, Joan Standing and Mavis Villiers.

Gary Cooper Film Ends Run In S. A.

Final showing of "The Man From Wyoming," starring Gary Cooper will be made at the Walker State theater today. The picture has been here for the past three days.

Cooper who has been here in a number of Western Pictures is a soldier in this recent film, which is a story of the war.

'DOORWAY TO HELL' BIG GANGSTER FILM

One of the most exciting sequences of "The Doorway to Hell," the latest Warner Bros. and Vitaphone melodrama of the underworld, which is now showing at the Fox Broadway theater, is that in which gangsters pursue the small brother of their former boss whose desertion they mean to avenge by kidnapping the child. A passing truck runs over the child and the lost leader returns burning with the desire to get revenge. He gets his wish only to meet the hatred of his former pals and to fall before a rain of their machine gun bullets. "The Doorway to Hell" is said to be marvelously true to gang psychology. The part of the courageous if misguided leader is played by Lewis Ayres, greatest of the new discoveries among screen stars. Others in the cast are matic sensation of the year is "The Charles Judels, Dorothy Mathews, Doorway to Hell."

THE TINYMITES
STORY BY HAL COCHRAN—PICTURES BY KNICK
REG. U. S. PAT. OFF.

Above the street hung balconies from which folks leaned and saw, with ease, the Tines as they walked below. One little girl cried, "Hey! If you would see a real nice view, come right up here. We'll welcome you. My little brother's down below. He'll gladly show the way."

"Tep! Here I am," a boy cried out. "I heard my little sister shout. Just come in through this doorway. It will take us up above. Then, from our balcony you'll see some sights, as pretty as can be." "That's fine," exclaimed wee Scouty. "Pretty sights are what we love."

So, very shortly they stood out upon the porch and gazed about. "It seems that we could jump right to the porches 'cross the way," said Clowny. "But, perhaps we'd slip and promptly take a downward trip. There's no use taking chances, so right on your porch we'll stay."

The Tines told the little girl that they were having quite a whirl at seeing things in foreign lands. "Oh, gee, it's heaps of fun," said Copyy. "And there's more to see. That's why we're rushed as we can be." They left the girl, but thanked her first, for all that she had done.

They reached the end of this small street and ran into another treat. A pretty bit of music floated softly through the air. "Oh, look!" cried Carpy. "I can see a dancer. She looks good to me. Let's ask her if she'll do a dance. I don't think she'll care."

They all cheered little Carpy's hunch. The girl was willing that the bunch just sit around and watch her while she danced in fancy style. A man near played a tambourine. It really was a pretty scene and when the dance was over all the bunch began to smile.

Laguna Beach Post-Office Receipts Show Increase

CITY'S GROWTH SHOWN IN PAST MONTH'S TOTAL

LAGUNA BEACH, Dec. 2.—Finishing November with a net gain of 34 per cent, the post office maintains its record of making an increase for each month and each quarter over the same period of the preceding year. In only two months has it failed to do this in nearly 10 years.

The November total of $1104.68 is a big gain over the $830.73 of November, 1929. During the past three months, Postmaster Brayton S. Norton reports, gross postal receipts were $4060.28, a gain of 27 cent over the $3193.88 of last year.

To make the figure for the past three months the more impressive, Mr. Norton directs attention to the fact that it is only $101.47 less than the quarter of last season which included the Christmas business. The figures are a gain over the June quarter of 23 per cent, which indicates, in the opinion of the postmaster, that there is no winter season in this community.

Commenting on the satisfactory volume of business which has come to the office under his supervision, Mr. Norton said of the year's increase: "To date the gain over the calendar year is a little in excess of 15 per cent over last year, which in view of the gains made during the last two quarters would seem to indicate that since the beginning of the fiscal year, July 1, when most of the offices all over the United States were showing a loss, Laguna Beach, in postal figures at least, has experienced almost a boom."

INSTALLATION OF PASTOR SET FOR JANUARY 8

WESTMINSTER, Dec. 2.—Installation service for the new pastor of the Westminster Presbyterian church, the Rev. Cyrus Carter, will take place the evening of January 8 at 7:30 o'clock.

Extensive plans have been made for the service at which Dr. William H. Oxtoby, president of the St. Anselmo seminary, of which the Rev. Mr. Carter is a graduate, has been asked to preach the sermon. The Rev. Thomas H. Walker of Anaheim has been asked to moderate the meeting. Dr. Charles F. Ensign, of Long Beach, will give the charge to the people while the Rev. John G. Klene, pastor of the Calvary Presbyterian church of Long Beach of which the Rev. Mr. Carter has been assistant pastor, will give the charge to the pastor and the Rev. Robert M. Orr will give the ordination prayer.

Last Sunday morning the Rev. Mr. Mason, of Long Beach, occupied the local pulpit and numbers were presented by the Mothers' chorus of the Westminster P.-T. A., composed of Mrs. Itasca Snow, Mrs. Daisy Day, Mrs. Ann Campbell, Mrs. Ned Clinton, Mrs. Armand Hill and Mrs. Rose. In the evening the Rev. Charles F. Ensign of Long Beach served as the last supply pastor of the local church, which on next Sunday will have the new pastor, the Rev. Cyril Carter, in the pulpit. Three vocal solos were presented by the Rev. Mr. Ensign upon request at a special song service.

H. B. Council Asked To Provide Work

HUNTINGTON BEACH, Dec. 2.—W. S. Osborn, president of the chamber of Commerce, appeared before the city council last night and asked that the city cut down the railroad grade dumps along Ocean avenue in order to provide jobs for idle men. The matter was referred to the committee with power to act. The job will cost about $3000 to complete and will be done, the council announced, if it can be done with city funds and without legal entanglements. The dump is partly on P. E. property and partly on Huntington Beach company property. All other matters before the council went over until the meeting tonight.

BEACH TO HIRE OWN RESIDENTS IN STREET WORK

NEWPORT BEACH, Dec. 2.—An attempt will be made to employ bona fide residents of this city on as much street work as can be carried on after January 1. It was announced at last night's city council meeting by Paul B. Ellsworth, chairman of the council's street committee.

"Floater" or residents of other places will not be considered unless all genuine residents of this city are first taken care of, it was said. Preference will be given to those who have been here the longest periods. Those desiring to register for such work may register at the police station at Newport or the chamber of commerce office at Balboa, Ellsworth said. Hereafter all piloting of boats into the harbor entrance will be in charge of Harbor Master M. S. Robinson. It was decided by the council in adopting a recommendation of F. W. Crocker, fire chief and head of the city life guards. The pilot here does not board incoming boats, but merely leads the way in his own boat.

William Gearhart was named a member of the board of plumbers' examiners, in place of T. B. Straff, resigned. A resolution was passed endorsing the sale of Christmas seals and other activities of the Orange County Tuberculosis association.

The council passed a resolution ordering work on River avenue and other streets in the new canal district of West Newport. No protests were filed. The work will amount to about $50,000.

Among the monthly reports of heads of departments read was one by City Treasurer J. A. Gant, showing, among other items of revenue during November, current taxes and assessments amounting to $140,428.22; tax and assessment redemptions, $843.97, and 1915 real fully paid assessments, $1158.19.

Judge Morrison, Dr. Warner Talk In Tustin Friday

TUSTIN, Dec. 2.—The Parent-Teacher association will hold a meeting in the Tustin high school cafeteria at 7:30 p. m., December 4. Judge Kenneth Morrison of Santa Ana will discuss "The Lack of Spiritual Training in the Home" and Dr. George A. Warner, of the First Methodist church, Santa Ana, will give a talk on "Training in the Home for Christian and Moral Character." Musical numbers will be presented by Mr. and Mrs. V. L. Humeston.

SEWER SYSTEM PROTESTS SET FOR JANUARY 5

NEWPORT BEACH, Dec. 2.—The Newport Beach city council took another step last night in the proceedings whereby it plans to install a new and up-to-date sewerage disposal system, to take care of all the city except Balboa island and Corona del Mar, and capable of accommodating a much larger city.

The council last night set January 5 as the date for receiving protests on the acquisition of the property necessary for the completion of the project. This acquisition will be under the Mattoon act, and bonds to the amount of about $7000 will be issued, payable in 1932 and 1933, to cover the cost of the property. The total cost of the system will be about $185,000.

The new system is necessitated because of the general growth of the city and the development of Lido Isle. It will take in Newport Heights and is capable of taking care of other territory which may be added to the city, as well as the anticipated growth of the present city for years to come. Balboa island is taken care of by another disposal plant.

A notification was read at last night's meeting from the county supervisors approving the proceedings. This was necessary, because the land to be acquired and on which the new plant will be built, is outside the city.

Through a mistake on the part of the contractors, according to City Attorney Roland Thompson, property owners in a lighting district in 1923 were not given the proper notice on payments, and a court decision was given to the effect that attorney's fees and costs later demanded were illegal. The matter came up when an attorney representing some of the property owners complained to the city council, but Thompson said that there was nothing that the city could do about it and that the original charge, amounting to $8 per lot, not counting the costs and fees, was still a lien on the individual lots.

SIX DISTRICTS FOR PARK FUND OF BEACH CITY

NEWPORT BEACH, Dec. 2.—The city of Newport Beach will be divided into six districts for the purpose of administering the special park fund, amounting to three cents on the $100, voted by the people last year and to be raised for the first time during the present fiscal year. The city council decided on this policy last night, adopting a plan submitted by Councilman Paul B. Ellsworth, chairman of the street committee.

As this policy had been already worked out by the council's street committee, the council instructed the city clerk to notify the Women's Civic league that its suggestion, made in a letter read at the meeting, that a park board of five be named, would have to be turned down at the present time. The league's letter suggested a board of five citizens, one from each of the city's five polling precincts.

The plan of the street committee is to divide the city into the following six districts: No. 1, Newport west of Tenth street; No. 2, Newport Heights; No. 3, Lido Isle; No. 4, Balboa, including the Peninsula and all east of Tenth street; No. 5, Balboa island; No. 6, Corona del Mar. As nearly as feasible, the fund, which will amount to approximately $4000 this year if all taxes are paid, will be expended in each district according to the assessed valuation.

Ellsworth explained that this policy had been decided upon, because the street department already had the administrative equipment and machinery necessary to carry out the objects of the fund. It will, however, welcome suggestions from any persons interested.

Among the matters to be considered in this connection is a letter from H. L. Sherman, chairman of the library board, asking that certain improvements be made at the park on which the library is situated at Central, Island and Bay avenue. These include hedges and a rustic seat under certain large trees in the park.

Trend Of Modern Education Cited In Kiwanis Talk

FULLERTON, Dec. 2.—Trend of the modern educational system was told to members of the Fullerton Kiwanis club at noon yesterday in McFarland's cafe by Dean W. T. Boyce of the Fullerton Junior college, in a program sponsored by the vocational guidance committee of the club. Boyce declared that vocational guidance, as such, is rapidly losing its prestige and in its place has come a broader term with more general ideas known as personnel director.

"The program now is to advise as to the dignity and indispensability of all work and to find out the inherent ideals and capabilities of the individual," Boyce said.

"Educators are discovering that in vocational guidance they are dealing with a difficult field. The trend now is to get young men and women to see facts as they are, analyze the situation and train themselves accordingly, then to find courage to strike out as they should go," the speaker pointed out.

ATWOOD

ATWOOD, Dec. 2.—Mrs. V. L. Adams was a guest Saturday at a bridge luncheon given by Mrs. O. E. Schenck, of Anaheim. Other guests were members of the Placencia Grammar school faculty. The main building at the Richfield school is being painted and Mrs. V. L. Adams entertained the women of her English and cooking classes Tuesday at a luncheon at Richfield Americanization school. Wednesday the La Jolla women were her luncheon guests.

State Engineer Inspects Highway At Laguna Beach

LAGUNA BEACH, Dec. 2.—State Highway Engineer S. V. Cortelyou was here today accompanied by other state highway engineers, Nat Neff, superintendent of highways of Orange county, James Irvine of the Irvine Ranch company; C. Roy Browning, engineer for the Irvine company and representative of the Emerald Bay company, to consider the highway widening project through the subdivision at Emerald bay. Widening has been projected for the entire road, and it is said that some preliminary surveys have been made which indicate changes in some places.

Advent Christian Church Group to Convene In Tustin

TUSTIN, Dec. 2.—The Missionary society of the Tustin Advent Christian church will entertain the Missionary society of the southern district of the Advent Christian churches Wednesday at an all day meeting. Luncheon will be served at noon in the social hall.

The Rev. Alvin Robb of Pasadena will give an address on "Christian Stewardship," and the Rev. John Brandlin, of LaVerne, will give a Bible reading in the forenoon.

Improvements On East Side Started Soon

HUNTINGTON BEACH, Dec. 2.—The city council played to a large gallery at the December meeting in the city hall last night and the session was dramatic and entertaining. Like a Chinese play of olden times, there was so much to be presented that the drama is to be continued, with the second performance continued to tonight and the third session to be held December 15.

The meeting was opened with Mayor Bowen in the chair and Councilmen Butcher, Conrad, King and Stevens present. City Attorney Lewis W. Blodgett and City Engineer Merwin Rosson were present and had lead parts in the program.

The meeting opened with the mayor asking the privilege of the floor for D. O. Stewart, east side property owner and pioneer resident and former city councilman in the early days of the city. Stewart wanted to know why the city had not gotten underway. He said he was speaking for east side residents and wanted a definite answer to take back to them.

Asked by the council just what particular east side project he referred to, he mentioned the cutting of Frankfort street through from Alabama to Main. The matter provoked quite a little discussion and finally was summed up in a statement of the city engineer. Engineer Rosson said that the plans provided for making a street 30 feet wide, by buying title to vacant lots across two city blocks to provide the right of way.

He said the state railroad commission had to grant a railroad crossing and had to grant the right of abandonment of an existing railroad crossing near the location of the new crossing.

Frankfort street is a 60 foot street, but it developed in the discussion that the council had dreams of widening the street to an 80-foot street at least as far as Delaware avenue from Alabama, a distance of three city blocks. Such a street would be wide enough for a business street. Stewart was assured that the money for the work was allocated for the budget for this fiscal year ending July 1, 1931 and the work probably would start within the next 30 to 60 days. He went home satisfied when Mayor Bowen reminded him that the project had been before one city council or another for the past 20 years, once when Stewart was on the council.

Contract for putting an oil and gravel surface on east side streets was let to J. H. Knight and company, of Los Angeles, at a total price of $22,988.55. This work will start at once. Knight offered the lowest bid of 12 bidders. The streets affected are Quincy, Indianapolis, for entire length of each street, and parts of Wesley, Crest, Tenth, Yorktown.

Asked by the council just what particular east side project he referred to, he mentioned the cutting of Frankfort street through from Alabama to Main. The matter provoked quite a little discussion and finally was summed up in a statement of the city engineer. Engineer Rosson said that the plans provided for making a street 30 feet wide, by buying title to vacant lots across two city blocks to provide the right of way.

He said the state railroad commission had to grant a railroad crossing and had to grant the right of abandonment of an existing railroad crossing near the location of the new crossing.

Frankfort street is a 60 foot street, but it developed in the discussion that the council had dreams of widening the street to an 80-foot street at least as far as Delaware avenue from Alabama, a distance of three city blocks. Such a street would be wide enough for a business street. Stewart was assured that the money for the work was allocated for the budget for this fiscal year ending July 1, 1931 and the work probably would start within the next 30 to 60 days. He went home satisfied when Mayor Bowen reminded him that the project had been before one city council or another for the past 20 years, once when Stewart was on the council.

Contract for putting an oil and gravel surface on east side streets was let to J. H. Knight and company, of Los Angeles, at a total price of $22,988.55. This work will start at once. Knight offered the lowest bid of 12 bidders. The streets affected are Quincy, Indianapolis, for entire length of each street, and parts of Wesley, Crest, Tenth, Yorktown.

Asked by the council just what particular east side project he referred to, he mentioned the cutting of Frankfort street through from Alabama to Main. The matter provoked quite a little discussion and finally was summed up in a statement of the city engineer. ### IMPROVEMENTS ON EAST SIDE STARTED SOON

HUNTINGTON BEACH, Dec. 2.—The city council played to a large gallery at the December meeting in the city hall last night and the session was dramatic and entertaining. Like a Chinese play of olden times, there was so much to be presented that the drama is to be continued, with the second performance continued to tonight and the third session to be held December 15.

The meeting was opened with Mayor Bowen in the chair and Councilmen Butcher, Conrad, King and Stevens present. City Attorney Lewis W. Blodgett and City Engineer Merwin Rosson were present and had lead parts in the program.

The meeting opened with the mayor asking the privilege of the floor for D. O. Stewart, east side property owner and pioneer resident and former city councilman in the early days of the city. Stewart wanted to know why the city had not gotten underway. He said he was speaking for east side residents and wanted a definite answer to take back to them.

Asked by the council just what particular east side project he referred to, he mentioned the cutting of Frankfort street through from Alabama to Main. The matter provoked quite a little discussion and finally was summed up in a statement of the city engineer. ## NEW YORK STOCKS

NEW YORK, Dec. 2.—(UP)—
The stock market today gave an bullish response to President Hoover's message to congress. Prices rose after the address had been delivered, despite the bears sought to start a reaction, and then rose to the close. These found the list fractions to more than a point above the previous close.
Trading was slightly more active than yesterday, when only a little more than a million shares changed hands.

CHICAGO OF TRADE

CHICAGO, Dec. 2.—(UP)—Wheat had a stronger undertone on the floor of Trade today with small deliveries in American markets, and in foreign cables and the strength in corn combining to give the market a higher close. Corn was the most active grain today, and showed great strength, advancing to a new high on the movement but there was some profit taking. Oats received aggressive support on the action in corn and wheat strong.

At the close wheat was  $\frac{3}{4}$ ¢ to  $1\frac{1}{4}$ ¢ higher, corn was  $2\frac{1}{2}$  to  $2\frac{3}{4}$ ¢ higher and oats were  $\frac{1}{4}$  to  $1\frac{1}{2}$ ¢ higher. Provisions were sharply higher. December lard stepped 50 points.

SHERLOCK HOLMES—The Reigate Puzzle

"There are some very singular points here," said Holmes, smiling at Alec Cunningham. "It is not extraordinary that a burglar should break into a house when he could see from the lights that the family was still asleep?"

"Your notion is absurd," Alec retorted. "If the house had been robbed wouldn't we have missed the things taken?"

Holmes Makes a Blunder

Mr. Cunningham interposed between his son and Sherlock Holmes, and the latter turned to him. "You will realize, Mr. Cunningham," he said, "that we are dealing with a very peculiar fellow, who appears to work on lines of his own. Look at the queer lot of things he took from Acton—a ball of string, a letter-weight, and so on."

"We are quite in your hands," Cunningham replied.

By SIR ARTHUR CONAN DOYLE

"I have jotted down here a form of reward," Holmes told Cunningham, taking a paper from his pocket. "I should like you to offer the reward yourself, for the officials may take a little time before they can agree upon the sum, and these things cannot be done too promptly. Would you mind signing it?"

Mr. Cunningham took the slip of paper and pencil. "I would willingly give five hundred pounds to catch the murderer," he said. "But this is not quite correct," he added, examining the document.

"I wrote it rather hurriedly," Holmes apologized.

"You begin, 'Whereas, at quarter to one' and so on. It was at a quarter to twelve, as a matter of fact..."

EVENING SALUTATION

*Our deeds are like children born to us;
they live and act apart from our own will.*
—GEORGE ELIOT.

WISHING STINSON SUCCESS

George Stinson, famous "singing cop" of Orange County, made his debut as a professional singer last night before a highly appreciative audience in Long Beach. It was the first of a series of concerts that will carry Stinson and his staff across the nation to New York where Stinson will climax his tour in a joint concert with Mme. Ernestine Schumann-Heink.

Mme. Schumann-Heink has declared that Stinson possesses the greatest tenor voice in the world today and has taken the young and genial Orange County boy under her professional wing. Sunday night over a nationwide hookup she took time out long enough to tell of "her Boy" and announced his debut which was to follow the next night on the Pacific Coast.

Stinson has a voice of great possibility. He has had a deal of training and what he lacks in stage presence he undoubtedly will acquire before he reaches the critics of the Atlantic slope and blue old New York.

The first few days of Stinson's tour will be confined to California. Later he will swing into the middle-west and then into the east. Stinson is accompanied by a press consul, a manager, and an accompanist. The accompanist is Frances Adams, a Santa Ana girl.

Press dispatches from Long Beach last night declared Stinson's concert to be one of the outstanding musical events of the year and a rosy future was predicted for the Orange County boy, who for years sang at night and rode the highways of Orange County as a traffic officer in the days.

A writer, just returned from Africa, says he prefers cannibals to the people he met on Broadway. Apparently he has had a close escape from the scalpers on the great White Way.

GAMBLERS NO ASSET

Finally checkmated by the police of Long Beach, operators of gambling ships off Seal Beach are planning on making Orange County ports their loading points for water taxis to carry passengers to the gaming tables three miles out at sea.

Such information comes as a distinct surprise for it was but a few months ago that Orange County authorities halted activities of the gambling ships' owners at Newport Beach. We cannot believe that the district attorney's office, or other peace officers of Orange County, will rescind their recent action to permit this class of business to thrive on the shores of this fair county.

According to plans, the operators of water taxis are contemplating using private docks on Newport Bay as headquarters and running their boats through the channel to the gaming tables.

Orange County can very well do without this class of business. The riff-raff of the underworld is to be found where gambling flourishes. Should authorities permit taxis to operate from Orange County ports it would be but a short while before this county would be the mecca for gangsters, thugs, highway-men and others of this ilk. If Long Beach does not want this class of trade, neither does Santa Ana, Newport, Balboa, or any other city in the county.

If Orange County will clamp down the lid as has Long Beach, it will not be long before the gambling ships lift anchor and seek new fields. Without taxis to carry passengers to the gambling ships they cannot operate and it seems this is an excellent time to force the unwelcome profession out of business.

Bill Roper, Princeton coach, says that football is 90 per cent fight. If only more of our heavyweights had learned to play football!

THE GOOD NAME OF THE AMERICAN LEGION

From time to time the news dispatches relate acts of rowdiness on the part of the Legionnaires. We heard much about it when the national meeting of the Legion was held in Boston and Louisville. No doubt the whole matter was very much exaggerated. It would be strange, indeed, if at a gathering of more than 50,000 young men, there was not a small group of rowdies among them. On Armistice day a small group of Legionnaires threw a tear gas bomb into the shop of a store keeper who refused to close his store on that day in Saint Clairsville, Ohio.

It is only just to report that both at the meeting of the national body in Boston and in the Saint Clairsville episode, such conduct was condemned by the proper officials of the Legion. The National Council, by resolution, condemned the action of the few who committed lawless acts in Boston. And last week, the State Council of the Legion in Ohio condemned the action of the Saint Clairsville Legionnaires who threw the tear gas bomb, even going so far as to threaten any local group with the loss of their charter should such acts take place again.

We are glad to mention these incidents, in view of the fact that many religious journals and journals of opinion have been very severe upon the American Legion for permitting such acts of lawlessness. The most valuable asset which the American Legion has is its good name, and the responsible officials conserve that good name when they condemn the unlawful acts of the few who shake the public confidence in their great organization.

WHERE WOMEN ARE VALUABLE

The debate between two women in Los Angeles yesterday at the Playhouse on the question: "Resolved, That Women Are More Valuable in the Home Than in Industry or the Professions," must have amused business women. It was so snug. It has a parallel in a debate such as: "Resolved, That it is better to be contented in a mansion than in a hovel." The parallel is not perfect by any means, but it is indicative of a perfect parallel.

Some women are contented in a home and are supported in a home. There are other women who are not satisfied. They are no more contented in a home than the average man would be. They want to do something different; they are not so constituted that they can see a vision of the opportunities in the home that they see elsewhere. Those who are happy conforming to the standards of the majority are probably the fortunate ones. Those who are not contented are not so fortunate because they must hew their own course and many times after they have spent time and money and energy and wasted hopes and dreams and ambition on it they find that the course they have been following does not satisfy them, and frustrated and even heartbroken over the "botch" they have made of their lives, they look back on their mistakes.

Then they notice women debating on whether women are more "valuable" in the home than elsewhere. Some women are more valuable in the home than anywhere else, other women are not. Who is going to decide which ones are natural home-makers and which ones fit better in some other occupation? The individual women themselves are trying to decide and they are piling up a wealth of experience which will help guide generations of young women to follow.

After it is decided where women are the most valuable there is the social and economic problem of keeping them there. It is at that point that they need the help of society, and the understanding of other women. It is hard for a woman, when she marries to lower her standard of living so as to conform to the income of her husband who is usually just "getting started." It is an angle of the problem which is seldom considered with sympathy. It is so easy to say that she should lower her standard if necessary to conform to her husband's income that people have little regard for the value she places on the standard of her home. In times past, there were other means for keeping up the standards of the family. In the privacy of the home subterfuges were resorted to, dresses were turned inside out and dyed, and hats were steamed and refurbished, and Johnny's clothes were handed down to Tommy.

In the Twentieth century when too little is to be saved in that way, women have undertaken other means, and means to many of them more difficult, of fitting into a job. People look askance at their efforts and find fault and say that the woman who is willing to work so hard to keep it up should lower it. They don't understand that it isn't in many a fine woman's nature to do that so long as she can find a way to do otherwise.

The judges of the debate decided that women are more valuable in the home. Women are valuable wherever they are keeping up the standard of American family life.

Steel Demand Quickens

Oakland Tribune

Favorable developments in the steel business interest the whole nation, for steel is a reliable indicator of conditions.

That a number of these developments have come at once and are creating an improved tone in trade sentiment, is the word which comes from Luther Becker, Chief of the Department of Commerce's iron and steel division. Becker points to the fact that several large automobile factories are calling back thousands of workers and are raising the output schedule—indisputable evidence that these industries are preparing for a larger volume of orders.

The price stabilization movement started recently by an important steel interest is a significant development in the industry. The support accorded the movement by smaller companies justifies the belief that the period of price irregularities is fast approaching an end. The uncertainty in the price situation has been a strongly retarding factor in the steel trade and has held back considerable potential business.

Early entry into the market of nearly all the leading railroads for large freight car requirements, entailing nearly three-fourths of a million tons of steel, and large inquiries for rails, plates, bars, etc., indicate evident satisfaction on the part of the railroads with steel prices. While these railroad demands cannot affect steel operations for some time, it was pointed out that their influence on the price situation may be widespread. Together with automotive requirements and construction, the railroads account for half of steel demands.

Although steel production has been below normal for some time, the position of the industry in general has suffered little. With the decline in steel prices there have been corresponding declines in the cost of pig iron and scrap iron. In addition operation economies have been effected which have enabled the industry to maintain wages. As a consequence, the majority of the mills have been able to go along on a profitable basis.

Taking the Bunk Out of Aesop's
Turtle Yarn

San Bernardino Sun

The turtle has been known as a racing animal ever since the time of ancient Aesop, whose story of how the tortoise beat the hare is a sporting classic. Lately a vogue for turtle-racing has sprung up in this country. But apparently it has died down again.

Proof of its death is the discovery of 2,000 turtles wandering aimlessly on Michigan avenue in Chicago the other day and gathered up by the humane society. They had been shipped from St. Louis for racing purposes, but there was so little demand, and the overhead was so great, that the race promoter turned them loose to forage for themselves.

The moral of the old Aesop yarn was that turtles, though slow, are sure winners because they keep everlastingly plugging along. Chicago turtle fanciers say this is the bunk. A turtle, after getting a good start, is just as likely as not to forget what he's doing and turn around and head the other way.

More Truth Than Poetry

By James J. Montague

TO A TROUT

(Which, according to the news, recently swallowed a golf ball)

You should have had another look
Before you swam, in mad career,
From out the limpid depths and took
Inside your maw that fatal sphere.
You thought you'd done a feat; no doubt—
Bagged some new bright and shining fly.
But you don't know as much about
The game as I.

That orb you swallowed as you dashed
So swiftly from some hidden deep
And somewhere in your vitals cached
Will keep you from your meals and sleep.
No more you'll know a peaceful day
As here and there you sadly roam
Thus freighted with its weight; it may Break up your home.

Before I'd heard of such a thing,
My soul was calm, my heart was gay,
I often used to try to sing,
I knew full many a pleasant day.
But now I know what futile strife
Is wrapped up in a pill like that;
A once serene and cheerful life
Is dull and flat.

For now, till lengthened shadows slant,
Your soul consumed with dark remorse,
About the pond you puff and pant
Like us poor fish around the course.
From woe you never shall be free,
Your act you'll bitterly recall,
And curse the day you chanced to see
That wretched ball.

"If Winter Comes"

By WILLIAM TRUFANT FOSTER and WADDILL CATCHINGS

"If winter comes, can spring be far behind?" We know that it can't. But our only grounds for believing that spring will come, is because it always HAS come. There is no other way of predicting any event whatever.

During the past 55 years in the United States, there have been eight major business recessions, including the present. The other seven recessions, without a single exception, have ended when business activity fell to from 18 to 22 per cent below normal. And right now, business activity is about 22 per cent below normal.

Run your eye across the business chart. You will see, at a glance, that every great business revival began when business reached the 80 per cent line. In other words, every downward movement of the curve of business stopped at 20 per cent below normal. That is the most striking fact in the whole history of business cycles.

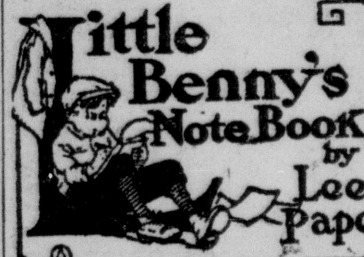

In other words, whenever the winter of business has reached the present low level, spring has not been far behind. In 55 years, there has not been a single exception to this rule.

But, says the pessimist, this time there is world-wide business depression! So there was in 1879. So there was in 1885. And again in 1893, and in 1907, and in 1920. Yet in every case, the business of the United States recovered promptly. It did not wait for revival abroad. There is every reason to expect that it will not wait this time.

These statistics were not collected by Pollyanna Politicians or by Business Boosters. They were collected by Dr. Warren M. Persons, formerly President of the American Statistical Association, and Professor of Economics at Harvard University. The statistics are as accurate as science can make them. They are as free from prejudice as the calendar.

And the calendar is generally right. It is always right when it says that if winter comes, spring can't be far behind.

Pops birthday is going to be this week. This morning at breakfast I said, Willyum, what do you want me to get you for your birthday?

You couldn't of asked me a more appropriate question, pop sed. For a month I've been lying wake nights wondering whether to buy myself a big woolly bath robe or a big silky fountain pen, so if you get me a big woolly bath robe my nerve racking indecision will be transformed into triumphant action, because there won't be anything left for me to buy myself but the big silky fountain pen, he sed.

But Willyum, don't you think it would come more as a surprise if I just got you something as a surprise? ma sed.

Yes, I think it would, pop sed. The only drawback is, it mite not be a pleazant surprise, and I always had an old fashioned idea that if a surprise isnt pleazant, it's not worth being surprised about. Yee soda, what was the idea of asking me what I wanted if your intrist in the matter is purely academic? he sed.

Well, I thawt perhaps you mite not know what you reely did want, as so many men genrelly dont, and if that was the case I thawt I'd surprise you by getting you something you reely wanted, ma sed, and pop sed, But its not the case for Peet sake. I want a big woolly bathrobe and if I get it that will be surprise enough for me bleeve me, he sed.

But Willyum, I've already got a surprise for you, that what complicates it, ma sed. What is it, an Armenian pin cushion made by the veterans of the war of 1870? pop sed, and ma sed, Dont be silly Im not going to tell you till your birthday.

Me knowing already, being 3 small size towels with pops private initial in the corner so nobody wont use them except him unless they forget to look for the initial first.

THE INFLATIONISTS

Yesterday I spoke of three groups of business leaders that are competing for our following in the current economic situation. They are:

- (1) The inflationists.
- (2) The deflationists.
- (3) The consumptionists.

Today and the two days to come I want to define these three groups, for the economic future of America will depend upon the popular reaction to their divergent philosophies.

Today let me speak of the inflationists. The inflationists were primarily responsible for the conditions that reached their climax in the market crash of 1929.

Inflation is a word that is usually associated primarily with matters of credit and currency. I want to give it the wider usage that current conditions seem to me to warrant.

The inflationists found fertile soil in which to grow during the last ten years. Post-war business was booming. Pioneer industries, like the manufacture of automobiles, were wallowing in the easy conquest of virgin markets. We were running double and triple shifts to catch up on the business that war had postponed. For a while a hungry Europe gave us a booming foreign trade. American psychology lost all sense of proportion. As a result all sorts of securities were eagerly bought at prices that bore no intelligent relation to the basic values of the industries they represented.

With business booming, and with the pressure from the men behind the scenes of the stock market, there came an unprecedented and economically insane inflation of credit.

And along with all this there was an incredible inflation of plant capacity in American industries. If American business desires to preserve the myth of the infallible intelligence of the business man, it would do well to move heaven and earth to have a closed season declared on all critical investigation of the record of plant capacity expansions during the last ten years.

Factories went up like mushrooms on the slightest provocation. Vast plants were built to meet demands related to the war period, demands that were bound to shrink in peace time. A new style, a new design, an alluring prospectus written by a clever advertising man—any one of these and like inspirations were enough to start a new factory or a plant expansion.

Many American businesses have admirably statesmanlike leadership. American business as a whole has been essentially leaderless; it lacks any central planning; the individualism that has been its glory has been also its greatest handicap; for it would be difficult to imagine a General Headquarters Staff for the American business system, made up of the dozen most statesmanlike captains of industry, ever having permitted the inflation of the last ten years.

OUR CHILDREN

By ANGELO PATRI
MOTHER'S HELPER

There is many a young mother who needs help occasionally. One of the best things a grandmother does is to relieve her daughter for an afternoon or evening, by taking charge of the house and the baby. There are errands that only the mother herself can do. Maybe she needs a haircut, perhaps she has been waiting for a chance to go to the dentist. Doubtless she needs time off for a little recreation. But unless there is some trustworthy person like grandmother to take charge of the baby she cannot go. Grandmother can kill two birds with one stone. She can achieve merit by helping her daughter and she can make the acquaintance of her grandchildren.

This is a post of diplomacy. Grandmother must never lose sight of the fact that she is a guest conductor. She makes her presence as graceful, as helpful, as welcome as may be without ever obtruding it upon the household. It will not do to try her own hand on the baby. No matter how much she would like to change his routine for the better she must refrain and follow the directions of the mother. Otherwise her usefulness and continued association with the grandchild, are settled and done.

The servants, if there are any, are not to be asked to do anything but what lies in their usual routine which they ought to follow without any direction from anybody. They are best left to the direction of their mistress. Nor is the guest conductor to tell any tales about them unless the situation is really serious, which is a rare occasion indeed. Mistresses know their servants very well and the guest can tell her little she does not already know. Tales about the maids and the children are unwelcome and irritating.

Grandmother can bring an atmosphere of peace and repose into the household by her very manner. The gentle movements of her hands, the smiling calm that her face seems to radiate, the assured strength of her spirit, bring courage and serenity to the household when she enters it.

"Just tell me what is to be done and I'll see to it. Have you written it all down? That is always best. One hates to forget whether the baby gets his evening feeding at five-thirty or six. I see. He goes to bed after that. Just lies in his crib, lights out. That's very easy. Now run along and leave the rest to me. Have a good time and forget all about us. We'll be here in good shape when you return."

Imagine the load a grandmother lifts when she does some such thing as that. Think of the strength she adds to the household by giving the young mother a chance for rest, a chance to go out with her husband for the evening. It is one of the things that helps in the beginning when the baby is getting accustomed to the strange voice and hands. After that it is a joy. Try it, grandmother, please try it.

On Dec. 2, 1736, Richard Montgomery, a soldier who fought with great distinction in both the British and American armies, was born near Feltrim, Ireland.

Following his graduation from Trinity college in Dublin, Montgomery joined the British army as an ensign and came to America to fight in the French and Indian war. He displayed such courage and sagacity at the siege of Louisbourg that he was promoted to captain.

After the conquest of Canada he returned to England, where he remained for seven years, when, selling his commission, he emigrated to New York. In 1775 he represented Dutchess county in the first provincial convention, and in the same year was appointed by congress brigadier general in the Continental army.

In the expedition against Canada he captured successfully Chambly, St. Johns and Montreal. Soon after his promotion to major general he was killed in an attempt to storm Quebec. The bullet that killed him, curiously, was the only one fired. His troops retreated on his death. A monument in his honor was erected by the order of congress in front of St. Paul's church in New York.
